Syria Charges U.S. Raises False Threat Of Communism to Gain Policy Support

Arterial Route Awaits U.S. Word on Changes

Start of work on Kingston's arterial route system is now contingent upon word from federal government officials on requested changes in an interchange phase of plans, a spokesman for the state public works department said today.

It was also indicated that definite planning on the proposed by-pass spur between Routes 209 and 9W, west of the city, is not expected before next year, but an engineer said that plans should be ready this fall for rebuilding of an upper section of Route 28, and work is expected to start soon on the building of a new bridge over the Rondout creek at Eddyville.

U. S. Pays 90 Per Cent

Federal government engineers have asked, because the city's arterial route will be part of an inter-state road system, that no crossings in the interchange pattern be at grade. The changes, as suggested, have been made, and word as to approval or rejection is expected momentarily. The main interchange connection will be at Route 28. The federal government pays 90 per cent, and the state pays 10 per cent of the cost of the project.

A major phase of the arterial route will be a spur connecting Route 28 and a main traffic point in the city involving Broadway, Albany Avenue and East St. James street.

Not Certain Yet

A state public works engineer was unable to give definite information on whether the 209-9W by-pass spur would join the present Route 28-thruway interchange just west of the city or whether a new interchange would be built a short distance west of the present interchange. He indicated, however, that it is more likely to be built west of

Dutchess Fair Drawing Many On Opening Day

Unflecked skies and temperatures in the low 50s greeted the opening of the 112th annual Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck this morning.

A fairground official told The Freeman that the opening day attendance "was coming in steadily and we expect today, Saturday and Sunday will be our biggest days."

He predicted that completion of the Kingston - Rhinecliff Bridge will prove a tremendous impetus to this year's attendance figure. "A perfect weather" forecast for the duration of the fair, which closes Wednesday, Aug. 28, was predicted, he said.

Daily bus service will be provided from the Trailways Terminal, Broadway, to the fairgrounds on all six days of the fair. Starting daily at 9 a. m. a bus will leave the Kingston terminal on the hour every hour until 8 p. m. From Rhinebeck to Kingston a bus will leave the fairgrounds on the hour every hour until midnight, daily.

'Critical' Is Report On Water

Kerhonkson Area, Highland Suffer

Water supplies in Kerhonkson and Highland were described as "critical" today, and workmen in the latter village worked feverishly laying a pipeline to link the Hudson River with a town reservoir.

Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of the Ulster County Health Department, said Kerhonkson was "holding its own on a ragged edge, although a shower they had yesterday may help a little."

Highland has "about a five-day supply left," he said, and the situation will depend "on the continued yield of Black Creek."

Rush Pipeline

Of about two and one tenths miles of pipeline necessary to link the Hudson River with town reservoir No. 4, approximately one-half mile of pipe was laid yesterday, Edinger said.

He noted, however, that work is progressing rapidly "and the men are doing a good job."

Treatment equipment for chlorination of water when the link is made has arrived in Highland from New Jersey and is being installed, he said.

Kerhonkson Hit Hard

Of the two communities — Highland and Kerhonkson—Edinger said, "You can take your

Police Caution Drivers About School Opening

Police authorities made an early appeal today to automobile drivers relative to the opening of schools.

Kingston's schools will open Wednesday, Sept. 4, and most others in the area around the same date, although definite announcements have not been made officially.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of the city system, named the local opening date this week in The Freeman.

Chief Raymond Van Buren of the Kingston Police Department, Sheriff Claude Bell and representatives of state police stations in the area today made appeals to drivers to slow down and save a life, especially when school children start to classes.

Think Group Planning to Kill Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Midwestern congressmen charged today that a newly formed organization is intended to cripple the St. Lawrence Seaway at its birth.

They referred to a committee formed here this week by Gulf and Atlantic Coast business and shipping interests to oppose low tolls or no tolls on the seaway.

Fair Draws 15,000 Is Estimate

Forsyth Event Is Declared Success

Upwards of 15,000 persons attended the two-day 1957 Ulster County Fair, which concluded yesterday at 5 p. m. at Forsyth Park, it was announced today, and the city administration was praised for its cooperation in staging the event.

C. Chester DuMond Jr., of Ulster Park, president of the Ulster County Agricultural Society which sponsors the fair, termed it "a great success."

He said he felt sure that if rain hadn't deterred attendance Wednesday night "we would have had an all-time record number of people visit the fair."

Thanks City

DuMond specifically expressed the Society's appreciation to Mayor Frederick H. Stang and city departments for "a truly cooperative effort."

"Without the substantial support and cooperation of Mayor Stang, the Department of Public Works, the Police Department, the Water Department and the Recreation Department, the fair could not be staged as a free admission event.

Many Assisted

"It is only with the gratis help we receive from the city, from the staffs of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, all three departments of the Ulster County Extension Service—Farm, Home and 4H Clubs—and many volunteers from throughout the county that we can stage the fair. Many hundreds of hours of work are contributed to make the fair possible."

It was noted that promotion of the fair for the benefit of the exhibitors and the public and to care for such large crowds requires a great deal of extra work.

The city erects special temporary toilet facilities, provides extra police for needed traffic duty and supplies the water tank truck to provide for the cattle, DuMond said. He noted, too, that "it takes a large crew of men several days to clean up the entire park."

Has Its Compensations

The expenditure, however; has its compensation, he noted.

"Thousands of visitors are brought to Kingston and over $8,000 in cash premiums are paid to county residents who will spend most of the money in the Kingston area," he said.

DuMond also expressed appreciation to department superintendents, their assistants, in-

Decision Welcomed For Press in China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles won commendation in Congress today for his decision to permit 24 American newsmen to report from inside Red China.

Dulles' action yesterday allowing these newsmen to be stationed there on a six-month trial basis points to an end of an eight-year blackout on direct reporting by Americans from the China mainland.

Press Happy

Spokesmen for groups in the newspaper field said Dulles' move was a step in the right direction —but that it ought to go further.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) called it "a long overdue but welcome retreat from an untenable position."

"If Red China will permit American newsmen to observe and report on happenings on the mainland, this could very well be the lifting of the Iron Curtain," Humphrey told newsmen.

Could Be Productive

"This could bring profound political repercussions. The next step might well be the release of American prisoners and a final settlement of the Korean War."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said in a separate interview it was "desirable to give the American people access to the news on the Chinese mainland without having to get it second hand, either through Red propaganda agencies or foreign news services of other countries."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said he was in full accord with Dulles' move. Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said he was pleased by what he called

Hoffa Would Aid Family If Dio Jailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamster boss James R. Hoffa told Senate rackets probers today he has agreed to "look out for" the family of labor racketeer Johnny Dio, if Dio goes to prison.

Hoffa said he agreed last month to help Mrs. Dio and her two children if she needs help.

Dio now is in Tombs Prison in New York, awaiting sentence on a shakedown conspiracy conviction. He is also under indictment in connection with the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, and faces charges of income tax violations.

Could Get 20 Years

If convicted on the income tax charges, the 43-year-old Dio could get a sentence up to 20 years.

Hoffa acknowledged yesterday that in 1953 he had had dealings with Dio about organizing New York taxi drivers. But he insisted he did not know then that Dio had a record of alleged antiunion shakedowns.

Under further questioning today, Hoffa said he still has a friendly relationship with the racketeer and told of the promise to look out for Mrs. Dio.

Still pleading a faulty memory, Hoffa repeatedly told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee he can't recall whether he had business dealings with Dio.

Can't Recall Business

"I can never recall doing any business with Dio," Hoffa said under questioning by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy.

Fencing with his questioner, he added: "I don't know what you mean by business."

Hoffa acknowledged that he did help to arrange two or three years ago for Dio to demonstrate to the Teamsters Union and some truck

Democrats Accuse Ike of Slight in Making Choices

WASHINGTON (AP) —Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) says President Eisenhower slighted Democrats in selecting this country's United Nations delegation.

Johnson made his protest in the Senate yesterday before that body confirmed Eisenhower's nomination of 10 delegates and alternates to the U. N. General Assembly.

The Democratic leader noted that only one of the five alternates is a Democrat, and added:

"This is not just a Republican United Nations."

Asks Better Balance

Johnson permitted the entire slate to be approved by unanimous voice vote, however, after asking that in the future the alternate delegates be balanced politically.

Johnson conceded that previous Democratic administrations had named U. N. delegations largely from the Democratic Party, but he said he was against that too.

The five delegates are U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican former senator from Massachusetts, Rep. Carnahan (D-Mo), Rep. Judd (R-Minn), President George Meany of the AFL-CIO, and Herman B. Wells, president of Indiana University.

Wadsworth Heads Group

James J. Wadsworth, U. S. deputy to the U. N. heads the five alternates. The others are Miss Irene Dunne, former motion picture actress; Mrs. Oswald B. Lord of New York; Genoa S. Washington, Chicago attorney; and Philip M. Klutznick, Lake Forest, Ill., attorney. Klutznick is the only Democrat in the alternate group.

Mid-East Influence Bid Seen

Raps Domination Plan of Nation

DAMASCUS (AP)— Syria's acting defense minister has charged the United States raised a false threat of a Communist takeover in Syria in order to hide its own bid for greater Middle Eastern influence.

Khaled El Azem joined other Syrian officials in denying that Syria is falling under Soviet control as a result of leftist officers taking control of the army.

The United States knows Syria will not accept foreign influence, Azem told American reporters yesterday.

Notes Propaganda

"You pretend we have become Communist and are under the influence of the Soviet Union. . . You use this as a weapon and propaganda, hoping to frighten people who fear Communism and who are afraid about their goods," the defense chief asserted. "You used it to force American and European public opinion to support American policy in the Middle East.

"If you told people frankly the real purpose, which is to replace British and French influence by your own and to guarantee the interest of oil companies and other monopolies, the American people would not help by giving you funds."

A statement read by Azem said the American people and President Eisenhower fail to understand the Arab mind and Arab aims. U. S. help to imperialism and Zionism "willingly or unwillingly . . .is preventing any understanding between the Arab and American peoples," he declared.

Domination Charged

"In addition, you (America) want to dictate your will to all people and want them to follow the same policy. You want to dominate large and small countries," Azem went on.

"America sometimes befriends kings and chiefs of state who agree with your policy. You think wrongly that their people are behind them. . .the people try to contact someone else to get rid of your influence."

Azem said Russia "wants Syria to be entirely free from the influence of the West as well as the Soviet Union itself."

Mum on Red Arms

The defense chief returned recently from a mission to Moscow to negotiate a public economic agreement. Azem had no comment about reports that Russia had also agreed secretly to supply more arms to Syria, which has been receiving Czech and Soviet arms for about two years.

The United States is angry, Azem said, "because we found friendly quarters other than you, and we found these countries desire to send us arms and give us technical help."

Red Vols Arriving

A London newspaper, the Daily Express, reported from Damascus that thousands of Russian volunteers are pouring into Syria "to

Cheering Chinese Give Big Welcome To U.S. Students

LONDON (AP) — Forty-one young Americans were almost mobbed by cheering Chinese youths when they arrived in Peiping today, the British news agency Reuters reported from the Red capital.

The Americans were among visitors at the Communist-organized World Youth Festival in Moscow and went on to Red China at the invitation of the Peiping government despite a U. S. State Department ban on travel there. Some of the youths said they believed their visit would benefit the United States and democracy.

"Peiping young people gave them a rousing welcome at the

Reuther Scores GM Bid On Contract Extension

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, replying to Walter Reuther's proposal for a $100 price cut on 1958 car models, has asked the United Auto Workers union to extend its GM contract two years as a "contribution to economic stability."

President Harlow Curtice, of General Motors, made the reply yesterday to Reuther's proposal. It was the first reply from the auto industry.

Reuther, UAW president, had portrayed his proposal as a means for fight inflation. He interpreted Curtice's response as an "arbitrary rejection" and accused GM of "shocking disregard" of the public welfare.

The UAW chief also charged GM with intending "to go on short-changing American consumers through higher prices."

Curtice made his counter-proposal in a letter to Reuther describing it as a constructive step against inflation. The United Auto Workers leader answered in a public statement.

In the statement Reuther interpreted Curtice's letter as an "arbitrary rejection" of the union's price cut proposal. He then denounced GM, declaring the company "evades basic issues."

Last week Reuther proposed to the auto industry's big three of GM, Chrysler and Ford that they cut 1958 car prices by an average $100 a car. In return he said the union would be willing to adjust next year's contract demands.

Reuther has not indicated what concessions the union might offer. The UAW has said it will seek higher wages and a shorter work week next year.

Present three-year contracts in the auto industry expire next spring. The auto union has said

Bill Would Call Congress Back Annually for Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) today proposed a special session of Congress each November and December, to be devoted almost entirely to federal budget legislation.

In a bill prepared for introduction in the Senate, Magnuson suggested requiring the President to submit his budget by July 15 each year, and making the government fiscal year correspond with the calendar year.

Under such a plan, he noted, the lawmakers would have 3½ months to discuss the budget with their constituents, then two months of intensive work to act on it.

At present the federal fiscal year begins on July 1. The President submits his budget the preceding January, just after the opening of each congressional session.

Magnuson's bill would permit handling of emergency items in the November-December fiscal session.

It would confine the regular congressional session beginning in January largely to legislative matters although deficiency money bills could be considered.

"It is not only important, but also necessary that Congress be in a better position to judge our national fiscal policies, to eliminate waste, and to provide for necessary spending on the most economic basis possible," Magnuson said.

"Under the current system in which Congress must deal with measures like civil rights one week and appropriation bills the next, it is impossible for an adequate job to be accomplished."

Senate Tussles Inwardly Over Bills on Pay Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — An under-the-surface tussle is going on in the Senate over two bills to raise salaries of federal employes 850 million dollars a year.

Senate leaders were reported ready today to call both bills up for a floor vote, probably early next week. The House has passed both by overwhelming margins.

However, Republican leaders have made it plain they expect President Eisenhower to veto the two bills. It seems likely the Senate, at least, would sustain vetoes if Congress still is around to act on them.

The more likely outcome is that the session will end shortly after the measures go to the White House and Eisenhower can pocket veto them. He took this course with federal pay legislation in 1954.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas announced 10 days ago the Democratic Policy Committee had cleared the two House pay bills for floor action. But so far they have not been called up for a vote, despite frequent reports that the time had come.

Leaders of federal employe unions have pushed hard for quick action. They have been aided by some senators.

Other senators, including some influential Democrats, are understood to have argued against any action this year.

Those opposing action contend the pay raises would be inflationary, would have repercussions throughout the economy, would touch off further demands for military pay raises, would endanger the small federal budget surplus, and would make a tax cut next year impossible.

One bill would give the half million postal employes a $546 annual raise each, at a total cost of about 317 million dollars a year. This averages about 12 per cent.

The other would give the one million classified Civil Service workers, including legislative and judicial employes, an 11 per cent boost at an annual cost of about 532 million dollars.

Resumes Practice Of Obstetrics; Was in U. S. Navy

DR. A. I. FELDMAN

Following service in the Navy and special training, Dr. Abraham I. Feldman, of 326 Washington Avenue, has returned to this city to resume his medical practice, specializing in obstetrics and gynecology.

Prior to his departure from Kingston in 1951, he was engaged in general practice. He discontinued this to undertake specialty training at the Jewish Hospital, Brooklyn, where he was a resident in obstetrics and gynecology for four years.

Interrupted Training

During this period, he interrupted his training to serve in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Navy where he held the rank of lieutenant commander. Dr. Feldman was chief of obstetrics and gynecology at the Naval Air Station Hospital, Patuxent River, Md.

Upon his discharge after two years of active service, he returned to The Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn as the chief resident in obstetrics and gynecology for an additional year of study. During this time, Dr. Feldman was associated with Dr. Charles Birnberg, Dr. Raphael Kurzrok and Dr. Herbert Kupperman, all internationally prominent in the fields of gynecological endocrinology and the study of infertility.

Dr. Feldman attended the University of Illinois for his undergraduate studies and received his bachelor of medicine and doctor of medicine degrees from The Chicago Medical School. He interned at the Greenpoint Hospital in Brooklyn and the St. John's Long Island City Hospital and was a general resident at Kingston Hospital prior to entering general practice.

Open New Offices

Dr. Feldman is a member of the Ulster County Medical Society, the New York State Medical Society, and the American Medical Association. He is a candidate in the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology and the American Society for the Study of Sterility.

Dr. Abraham I. Feldman has joined his brother, Dr. William C. Feldman in the practice of obstetrics and gynecology in their new suite of modern offices, the construction of which has just been completed at 326 Washington Avenue.

Dr. Feldman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan L. Feldman of 110 Wall Street.

Retirement Blues

LEWISTOWN, Md. (AP) — J. William Strine has retired as janitor of an elementary school he first entered 74 years ago as a first-grade pupil. His retirement, at 80, was not voluntary and Strine is still an energetic man. "How old is old?" he asked. "If it is in their 60s that folks are supposed to sit back on their Social Security, someone should have told me long ago."

Accord's Old Stone Houses

Anyone interested in America's colonial past (and who isn't?) should find a veritable treasure trove in the region in and around Accord. Here are some of the very oldest houses in the United States, and some of the best preserved. The bluestone used in their construction is unique, and their location in this beautiful valley lends them added enchantment. Legends surround them, and heroic tales of the past, perhaps all the more so because many of them are lived in by descendants of the builders of long ago.

In this fertile valley of the Rondout, on Route 209 in Accord (just a short drive from Kingston), stands the Accord Furniture & TV Mart, its ten large show windows framing a view that cannot have changed very much from those early days. NEW YORK (AP)—The accent is on youth in the nation's stores today.

Back-to-school promotions are aimed at a record 43,135,000 enrolling in schools and colleges. This means 1¾ million more need outfitting this year than last.

First response has ranged from spotty to excellent. Most stores look for the big rush this coming week.

Ads stress the new in school needs, like: "A modern pen for the progressive student" and "pack up your bubbles (a liquid laundry detergent) and carry them off to school in a plastic bottle."

Play Up Standbys

Or they play up the standbys of other days, like: "Our poplin auto coat" reminiscent of the first horseless carriages, second hand raccoon coats that saw their first time round in the 20s, and middy blouses.

The National Assn. of Men's Apparel Clubs believes that boys are getting more clothes conscious. And a store in the Bronx section of New York City advertises Ivy League style suits for grade school boys.

The Boys' Apparel Buyers Assn. gleefully reports that in 1955 the nose counters found 5,682,000 boys in the 15 to 18 age group and look for 8,772,000 in that group in 1965—all busily outgrowing their old clothes.

The college trade is proving lucrative. Some 3½ million students—up 206,000 this year, according to the U. S. education commissioner—are out shopping.

Enlarging Shops

One of New York's top men's stores is enlarging its university shop.

Another is stressing its university model in its suit ads. A New York department store, offering an unabridged dictionary of college fashion, stresses motor scooter jackets, students' linen handkerchiefs strictly distinguished as to gender, and assures one and all that red is the favorite evening color for dancing coeds.

The button down dorm shirts in crimson cotton challis, waltz night gowns, pinafore robes and baby doll pants are advertised for girls' school.

One store thinks no college man should start back without a 100 per cent washable synthetic necktie.

Sentimental Appeal

A New York hardware store is out for the back-to-school trade with lamps, clocks, waste baskets and a big world atlas.

One specialty store makes a sentimental appeal: "Your grandfather and grandmother satisfied their back-to-school needs here."

The big sleeper this year has been the raccoon revival. A New York store got out the old numbers that college boys once wore and sold them fast to girls instead of boys.

Baltimore reports good business after advertising "real gone raccoon recovered from the attics of America" at $25. San Francisco, Los Angeles and Beverly Hills sold the vintage coats at $32 and did excellent business.

After Deadline

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The World-News here reported to its readers why stories sometime fail to get in the paper on time. A World-News reporter called an Air Force major. He was out playing volley ball and not near a phone, but would call later. The reporter called the superintendent of a vacation Bible school for some information. A child said mama was taking a bath but would call later. The reporter called a business man to check a date. The business man couldn't say because his secretary kept the records and she was then attending a weight-reducing class.

Woodstock UJA Benefit to Hear Rabbi's Address

DR. PERETZ HALPERN

WOODSTOCK — A distinguished rabbi, world scholar and authority on Jewish affairs, Dr. Peretz Halpern, will be guest speaker at a United Jewish Appeal benefit party and musicale Saturday, 8:30 p. m., at Tanglewood Hotel, Route 375, Woodstock.

The affair is part of the regular 1957 campaign as well as the drive to raise a $100,000,000 emergency rescue fund.

Invitations to the party have been sent out to every Jewish family on record in the Woodstock area, it is announced by Alvin E. Moscowitz and Irving Kalish, co-chairmen for the appeal campaign in Woodstock. Every effort was made to make the invitation list as inclusive as possible; however, anyone who has been overlooked for any unavoidable reason is cordially invited to attend.

Features Guest Artists

On the musical side of the program, featured guest artists will be Miss Naomi Lieberman, a young soprano vocalist already wellknown to Woodstock concert-goers; and Hanus A. Schimmerling, prominent Woodstock musician-composer and teacher, who will accompany Miss Lieberman on the piano.

Dr. Halpern, a keen student of international affairs and an extensive traveler, has just returned from another comprehensive tour of Jewish communities around the world. His knowledge of important world issues is first-hand, for during his travels he has conferred with top-level officials and diplomatic representatives of many nations, including Israel, Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Egypt, Syria, Japan, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Burma and India.

Dr. Halpern is a specialist in Arabic language and literature. He has lectured on Judaism at Tokyo University and on Jewish history at Waseda University. He has conducted radio programs on subjects of Jewish interest and has contributed to the Political Science Review. In addition, he has found time to edit two volumes of Jewish music.

May Send Contributions

Those who for any reason are unable to attend the party Saturday and wish to contribute to the UJA Fund, may send their donations to any of the following members of the Woodstock Appeal fund committee: Mr. Moscowitz, Harry Gordon, Mrs. Peretz Halpern, Joseph Forman and Herman Higger.

Proceeds of the emergency rescue fund, which are sought over and above the normal UJA campaign needs of $105,000,000, are urgently needed to provide transportation and resettlement in Israel and other free countries for 100,000 Jewish men, women and children in flight from tension, conflict and persecution in Egypt, Hungay and other nations in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East.

The emergency rescue fund and the proceeds of the regular 1957 UJA campaign will finance the life-saving services provided by three constituent agencies—the United Jewish Appeal, the Joint Distribution Committee and the New York Association for New Americans.

In addition to the 100,000 refugees to be aided by the rescue fund, these agencies this year must provide welfare and rehabilitation assistance to some 525,000 newcomers to Israel and distressed and dependent Jews in 20 other countries throughout the world.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON DISCUSSES FALL OUTLOOK

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 23—What is really causing the inflation buildup and how can it be arrested? Among causes suspected are the unchecked wage demands of labor and the government's earlier mistake in pressing for easy-money policies.

The way to check the inflation spiral, many say, is through credit restrictions. Certainly, without the willingness of business and consumers to assume debt, there could not have been the kind of spending which has led to the expansion and production seen in recent years. Without these tonics neither production nor prices could have risen as they have.

Gradual inflation may continue to the point where the turnover of money will have finally reached its limit. Should too many businesses or consumers become suddenly pessimistic with regard to conditions, an about-face could occur rather quickly. My personal poll of businessmen gives indications of waning confidence.

Labor's Share Increasing

Both businessmen and consumers should understand that unbridled spending cannot help but intensify the inflationary threat. Is it possible that the only solution is tighter direct government controls for all? But even if both the businessmen and the consumer should become frightened by the inflationary spiral, I believe the full effects need not be felt for several months to come.

Despite the current business sentiment, production in June and July about equaled the April and May levels. Employment is up, Retail Sales are ahead of totals for last year at this time. The factory work week, though slightly longer at latest report, falls short of that for the same period in 1956. The increased number of hours worked pushed weekly earnings in manufacturing up about 80c in June over May to an average of $82.59, resulting in a year-to-year gain of more than $3 per week. Construction activity, which had been lagging earlier in the year, is picking up. Chemicals, rubber, and utilities are on the uptrend. Gross national product has passed the $430-billion mark. Even with due allowance for higher prices, all of the foregoing suggests continued heavy spending.

Important Statistics to Remember

Let us not forget certain basic ingredients of our economy. Today, we see about one million new family formations per year, with all the resulting wants and needs. This compares with a figure of 500,000 in 1940. The longer non-producing segment to our population at one end; while the high birth rates following World War 2 are creating another big group of dependents at the other end. In the middle are the workers, shrunken abnormally in numbers by the low birth rate of the depressed 1930's.

Upon this relatively small worker force falls the burden of production. The solution to the problem lies in a vastly increased rate of output per worker—or in a decline of total demand. Stepped-up automation may be the real answer — but this change will come slowly. I therefore conclude that labor leaders hold the reins; they must be responsible for the ultimate results. They, and the politicians who fear them, will surely cause a smash-up unless they stop demanding constant wage increases.

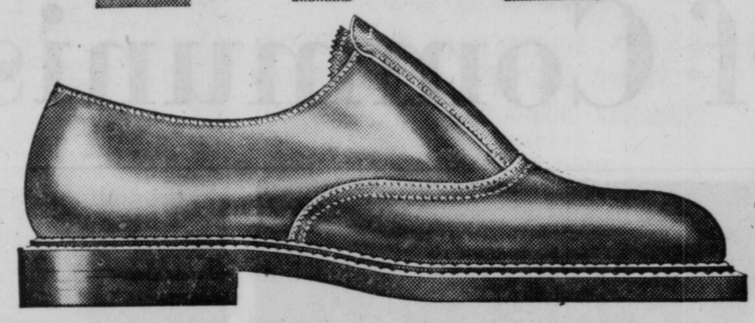

Remaining 1957 Months

Bonds are selling lower than for over 20 years. This is not a good sign. Stocks are not holding up. Many commodities are slipping in price. Investment sentiment and reported earnings show up well so far in July. I, however, believe that readers will do well to take profits and deposit the money in banks where they can get 3 per cent to 4 per cent awaiting a good break in the stock market.

Businessmen should gradually get out of debt and prepare for very severe and unprofitable competition during the remaining months of 1957. Either assured peace or another war could start a collapse. I "feel-in-my-bones" that something unexpected may at any time happen. I especially have in mind the fear of either FALLOUT or DISARMAMENT. Russia's best defense at the present time is using the threat of fallout in trying to force disarmament.

The 400-pound pirarucu, or river whale, which is found in the Amazon river, is the largest freshwater fish in the world.

WILL TEACH SPECIAL CLASS—Earl F. Soper (right) superintendent of Kingston city schools, discusses plans for creation of a special class for mentally retarded-trainable pupils with Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Smith, who will teach the special class. The special class for trainables, one of the few in the state, will be located at Temple Emanuel, Abeel Street, by special arrangement with Temple authorities. (Freeman photo).

Will Have Classes For Retarded in School Program

The Board of Education is completing the formulation of plans to have a rather unique class of students this September.

Late in the school year, 1956-57, the board approved the creation of a special class for mentally retarded-trainable pupils.

These pupils were previously excluded from regular school instruction under existing provisions of the education law and rulings of the commissioner of education. Recent legislation has made it optional for boards of education to establish such classes. The class in the Kingston schools will be one of the few in the state.

Work With AHRC

The board and the school administration have worked closely with the Ulster County Chapter of the Association for the Help of Retarded Children. Active in the organization and the sponsorship of the class have been Mrs. Walter Furman, president and Mrs. Dorothy Beuhring, advisor.

The class will be taught by Miss Dorothy Smith, formerly kindergarten teacher at the George Washington School. Miss Smith received her BE degree at New Paltz State Teachers College in 1948. She came to Kingston as a kindergarten teacher in 1950, having had two years of previous experience in Newburgh and Ellenville. Miss Smith has done graduate work at New Paltz and this summer is taking special courses offered by Russell Sage College in Special Education.

The Special Class for Trainables will be located at Temple Emanuel, Abeel Street, by special arrangement with temple authorities. Children from the city of Kingston will be admitted without cost of any kind. Transportation will be provided by Lipton's' Bee Line by special arrangement by the board of education. The class is assigned to Miss Mary Polhemus, principal at School 3 for administrative purposes.

Children Screened

The children are carefully screened before admission is assured. First, each child is examined by Henry M. Lampl, school psychologist. Secondly, each child is approved by an admision committee. Children admitted to the class are on a trial or probation basis, since school authority must be assured of reasonable success for each child. The class receives New York State approval by the State Education Department, Bureau of Handicapped Children. Questions or inquiry should be directed to Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools. Parents of the children approved by the Committee will be notified through the mail by Dr. Soper.

The Kingston schools open for these students on Wednesday, Sept. 4.

Abominable Snowman Latest Red Claim

LONDON (AP) — Not to be outdone by non-Communist nations, the Russians are now claiming their own abominable snowman. They're sending an expedition to find one.

If they succeed, it will be the first one found. Abominable snowmen that are supposed to look like men and stand eight feet when walking upright have long been reported high in the Himalayas of Nepal. Expeditions to track them down across the snow-covered mountains have failed.

Moscow Radio said a Soviet expedition left today for a previously unsuspected habitat of the elusive furry footed creature, the Pamir Mountains in the corner of Soviet central Asia where Russia meets western China and Afghanistan.

SPENDING AND INFLATION

William Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, had some sober words of caution the other day on the subject of inflation. He warns us not to try to do too much too fast.

Basically America today is in a period of expansion, but the present is not a boom phase. Some parts of the economy are moving ahead, others are lagging. In Martin's view, these mixed trends produce imbalances which must be brought into adjustment if we are to avoid trouble.

He noted, for instance, that total U.S. output went up 10 billion dollars last year but half of that increase represented simply higher prices rather than greater production of goods and services.

He suggested that some enterprises may be expanding too rapidly and thus developing temporary overcapacity.

To Martin, curbing inflation is an elemental matter of reducing spending and boosting savings. By this process, money goes out of circulation and the pressures on the price structure are eased.

He thinks we've had too much spending recently in relation to savings, but there are signs we may now be heading toward a better balance which could lessen inflationary dangers.

Americans always have been great anticipators. If the long-range trend is toward expansion, they like to spend the money now for what lies ahead.

What Martin seems to be saying is that we will all be better off, that the economy will keep in better balance, if we don't try to spend today what we ought to keep in our pocketbooks until tomorrow.

And that goes both for the ordinary consumer and the enterprisers eager to put up another batch of factories.

NOT ALL IS LOST

A word of cold comfort for the bald and the balding comes from a scientific congress on the subject in London. Prof. Stephen Rothman of the University of Chicago said that he knew of not a single case in which baldness had hurt a man socially or professionally. "Think," he exhorted, "of Julius Caesar and President Eisenhower."

Many a man with a mane on the wane would be willing to think of Julius and Ike for hours on end if this kind of mental exercise would restore his hair. On this point, Professor Rothman offered no hope. In fact, neither he nor Dr. Geoffrey Bourne of Britain, another speaker, had any very helpful suggestions.

Heredity is important, said Rothman. Frequent brushing may do something about so-called "resting" hairs, Bourne suggested. But neither they nor any other speaker claimed to have any bona fide method of covering a shiny dome with natural hair. These tidings may come as a blow to those whose thatch is dwindling like the snows of yesteryear. But don't give up, men. Though the hair be lost, not all is lost. Remember Julius and Ike.

Quizzed in a television program, Vice President Nixon declined to talk about the 1960 GOP presidential contest. He said he would answer "almost any other question but on this one" he would remain silent. For the time being, that is.

PROPAGANDA GRIST

Some 200 Americans are reported to have attended the Russian Youth Festival in Moscow. Whatever the exact number, it is precisely that number too many. The Kremlin clique has been faced with the need of winning back prestige lost by the rape of Hungary. The Youth Festival can aid it in this respect as well as more generally.

The Youth Festival can and will be used as a propaganda issue in the controlled Communist press all over the world. The Kremlin clique will find this festival useful in many ways. And the propaganda it thus makes will be directed against us.

Moscow has been concocting stunts like this one for a long time, and it always finds those who will fall for the tricks. It would have been better if no American youths had attended. Such an absence would have been conspicuous, and the people behind the Iron Curtain would have grasped this point.

The practice line, "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party," probably is shortened for Communist typists by omitting "good" since the leaders feel there is no reason to be too particular.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AT 87

Bernard Baruch has reached the age of 87 and has written a book about himself which has been amply reviewed, particularly by those who are excited over the fact that he was a millionaire by 35 and that he had a formula for purchasing securities and speculating in them which one might use to advantage.

This part of Baruch's biography interested me least. Quite a few men speculated in the stock market and some won and some lost. Also, I know many millionaires and some of them I would not invite to my home to meet my family. The mere possession of money does not always represent ability or is at all representative of character. After all, surely Al Capone was a millionaire and so is Lucky Luciano.

Baruch's worth is not that he made a fortune but that he is a constructive citizen; that he is generous in his benefactions to charities; that he has helped a number of younger persons get started; that he is loyal to his country and faithful to his God and the traditions of his ancestors.

I do not even get excited over the fact that Presidents have sought his advice. Presidents should seek the advice of wise and experienced men, but some of the advisers whom the current and prior Presidents chose were neither wise nor experienced.

What is notable about Baruch, as it is about Herbert Hoover, is that when he has been asked to serve, he has never refused to give time and effort, no matter what his age or the momentary state of his health. There has been no old man's complaint about aching bones and tired muscles.

Those who thank God for being alive have no time to complain. They know what to expect and are grateful that it is so long delayed. Baruch, who is a Jew, is a profoundly religious man. His mother came of an old Sephardic family that had settled first in New York and then in South Carolina in the Colonial days, arriving in the United States before 1700. His father, Simon, was born in Posen, Germany, now Poznan, Poland. Simon Baruch came to the United States in 1855. He studied medicine at the South Carolina Medical College and at the Medical College of Virginia. He became a surgeon, serving in the War Between the States on the Confederate side.

Baruch has been unusually devoted to the memory of his father and has spent much of his accumulation to perpetuate his father's name, particularly in the field of physiotherapy in which Dr. Simon Baruch was a pioneer.

To me, it is most interesting that this man who has known all the great men of his generation, who has been the friend of such men as Woodrow Wilson, Jan Smuts, Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, finds greenest his memory of his father. That is old tradition, sacred among the people from which Baruch came.

It might be said that all this could have been written without reading "Baruch — My Own Story," and well it could, for what boots it that a man made money in business or achieved great position in politics? What does matter is what is the character of this man. Bernard Baruch is of a prophetic race who has served the country of his birth valiantly and devotedly as he has served the God of his fathers in their own tradition.

Perhaps nothing characterizes this more than the tale Baruch tells of the day he told his father that he was worth a million dollars. Baruch says:

". . . His kindly face assumed a quizzical expression, as if he experienced some difficulty in grasping the fact of a million dollars. Thinking that he might be questioning the accuracy of my accounting, I offered to show him the actual securities.

"'No,' he said, 'I will take your word for it,' and began to talk of something else."

To a Jewish intellectual such as his father was, coming of a line of rabbis, what did it matter that a man was worth a million dollars? After all, none of the great figures in Jewish history were worth a million dollars or for that matter, a million cents. Baruch seems in these lines to be proud of his father's attitude as well he may be. For the kingdom of God is to the good and charitable.

Many Headaches Brought On by Emotional Strain

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

"I have a bad headache" is probably the most common excuse used to avoid undesired activity. It is a good one, too, since no one can prove it does not exist.

But I do not want to discuss the subject of headache as a social excuse, but rather the genuine article. Surely, severely recurring headaches are extremely common and nearly all of us have suffered from one at one time or another. What is not always fully realized is that there are several kinds of headaches.

There is no doubt that many headaches are brought on or made worse by emotional strain. It is not unusual, for example, to hear such stories as these: A practicing lawyer, working almost constantly under great strain, gets a severe headache on one side of the head every two or three months. A boy in college always gets a terrible headache just before examinations. A busy mother suffers from headache if she eats oysters with her occasional restaurant meal.

OCCASIONALLY headaches are related to sinus difficulty or some other physical disorder. For all these reasons the successful treatment of those who suffer from recurring headaches is not easy.

A common type of headache appears to arise from a relaxation of the blood vessels in or near the brain. In this type of headache the treatment consists in giving some substance which causes the blood vessels to contract.

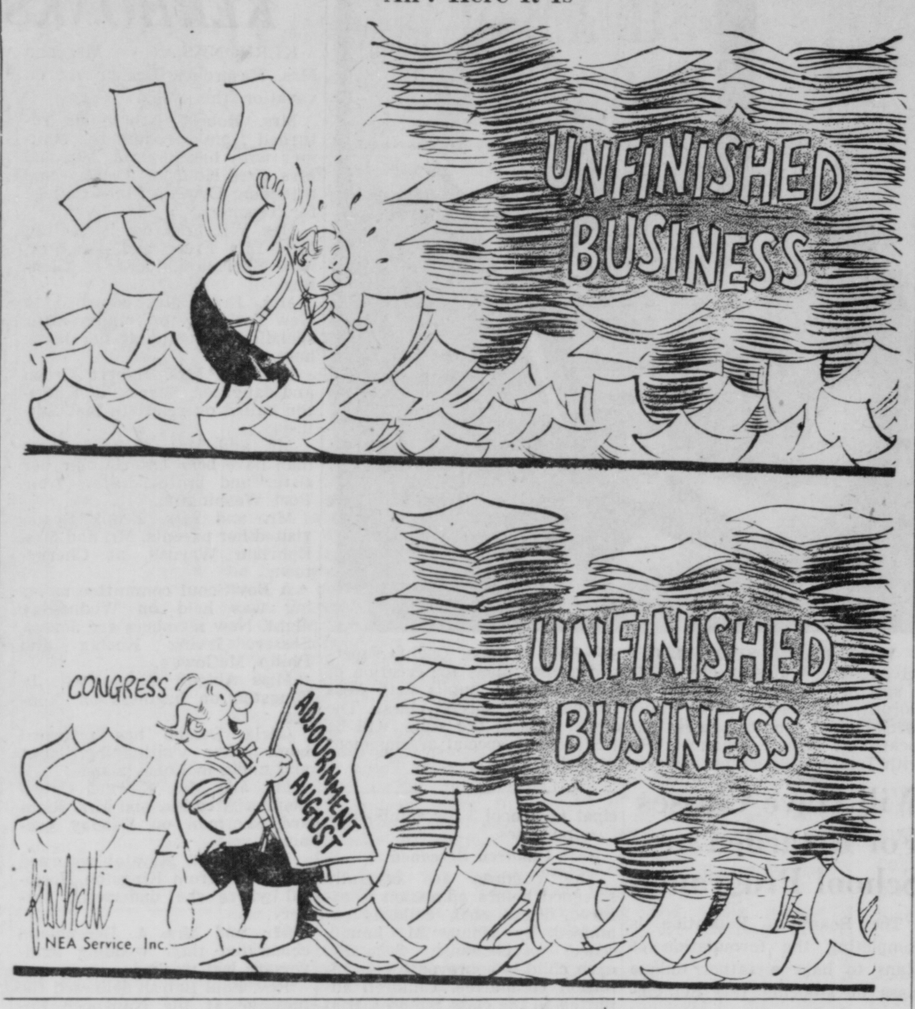

RAPID RELIEF from this kind of headache has sometimes been obtained by injecting adrenalin into one of the veins. Also favorable reports have been made on the injection into the veins of a substance called sodium nicotinate (not related to the nicotine in tobacco).

Migraine is, of course, one of the most severe kinds of headaches. As a rule this type of headache is located on one side only. Before it starts the sufferer often has peculiar sensations. In migraine, drugs given just before an attack may stop the aching before it has gone too far.

IN ANY CASE of severe or repeated headaches a complete history should be recorded. The victim of such a condition should try to remember exactly where the headache is located and how it started, and particularly what unusual events preceded it.

It is only after thorough investigation that it may be possible to do much. Even then there are many failures.

"Ah! Here It Is"

Washington News

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—As soon as it was determined that Mamie's operation was a complete success everyone from the last White House butler to Ike's top aides was overjoyed.

Mamie's warm, easy-going understanding method of supervising the living conditions of the executive mansion has won her the deep affection of the whole staff.

Every day during her stay at Walter Reed Army Hospital almost every White House employe sent her a personal card or note urging a speedy recovery. Every time Ike drove out 16th Street to the hospital he and the Secret Service men would be asked to deliver some special cake, a little gift, or a bouquet of cut flowers from the White House garden which some member of the staff wanted Mamie to have.

She got a great kick out of this spontaneous expression of affection and sent a special message of thanks to each donor.

THE PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION of sympathy for the First Lady has put a staggering burden on the White House mailroom. Thousands of letters have been received from all over the U. S. and abroad.

When informed of the avalanche of mail she cried, "Oh dear, that's too bad because it means that I can't answer each one personally."

Mamie has been the most prolific letter-writting First Lady in history. When it's humanly possible within her crowded schedule she insists on answering every letter she gets personally.

In spite of the fact that Mamie and Ike have been spending much time at Gettysburg she hasn't relaxed her careful attention to the details of running the White House. For example, when she returned from her recent trip to Denver she saw a maid at work who was supposed to be on vacation.

Mamie's inquiry revealed that the maid had traded vacation weeks with another maid, which was fine with the First Lady. She just wanted to know what was going on.

In addition to Mamie's ability as a housekeeper she has a great talent for keeping the President in good spirits. This probably accounts for some part of the general relief over her recovery among White House employes.

JUST THE SHORT time that Mamie was in the hospital the staff could tell the difference in the President's mood. He has a tendency to be snappish, anyway. But in Mamie's absence he roamed around the White House living quarters frequently in a state of some irritation. He displayed the Ike temper in the office, too, more than usual.

This mood probably reflected concern for the First Lady's health. But her natural gaiety is the best balm known for the President's disposition.

A relatively quiet summer, plus the Newport, R. I., vacation, are going to turn out to be good tonic for Mamie because she has a strenuous fall and winter season coming up.

The visit of England's Queen Elizabeth II, and her husband the Duke of Edinburgh, in October, will launch Mamie's heavy schedule for the coming months. The royal pair will be staying in the White House itself as guests of the Eisenhowers, instead of across the street in the official presidential guest house.

THIS WILL NECESSARILY cause Mamie extra work, which she will love to do. She's naturally gregarious and likes company. But she also insists on tending to such White House details in person, to make sure there are no slips in the hospitality.

No decision has been made yet about an official White House winter season. Last winter there was only a limited budget for official receptions and dinners. It'll probably be about the same this winter.

If Ike had his say, however, it is suspected that the social season would be cut below what it was last year. Mamie, it is reported, has kept it as active as it has been. But even if there is no so-called official social season the First Lady must carry a heavy schedule of official duties such as appearing at luncheons and teas.

Mamie is also in great demand among her personal friends. She visits as many as she can fit into her schedule.

President's Candor on Role Of '57 Congress Is Praised

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There is something refreshing about President Eisenhower's naturalness and candor. He was asked, for instance, at his press conference this week if the record of Congress this year, which he regards as disappointing might lead to his taking the stump for a Republican Congress next year in a sort of "modified give-'em-hell campaign." His answer was this:

"Well, I think I will just have to pursue what is natural for me. I believe that any one who does something that is unnatural and artificial for himself is not effective. Now, what I plead for are the programs that I believe to be good for America. And now it happens that I believe the Republicans have a better program than the Democrats and, to that extent, of course, I am going to be partisan ,but primarily I am for the program."

Truman Drive Recalled

The reference to a "give-'em-hell campaign" was, of course, based on the kind of stump speaking which Harry Truman boasted about in 1948, and there is still the illusion in many quarters here that name-calling gets somewhere with the American people. Actually, in 1948, the Truman vote in most states ran far behind the vote for a Democratic Congress—one of the rare instances in which a resident winning an election got fewer votes than the members of Congress of his own party. Indeed, Mr. Truman would have lost but for the defection of the Republican farm vote in certain Western states and in Ohio. This was due more to Republican errors than any virtues in Trumanism.

There isn't any need to imitate Mr. Truman, for there are dignified ways to deal with a hostile Congress. Mr. Eisenhower, to a remarkable degree, retains the esteem of the American people. He has no selfish interest in government or politics. He is not eligible for a third term. His reward can come only in the satisfaction that he has served the American people faithfully. The President's efforts to conciliate rather than to antagonize Congress have been in conformity with his whole approach to problems of human conflict. For this reason, he has a real opportunity to carry to the American people his case for the enactment of a constructive legislative program.

First Principles

Mr. Eisenhower needs only to go back to first principles and explain to the country why the American system of government cannot be effective if it is divided in a time of crisis. It is especially dangerous when a lack of responsibility is manifested.

After all, Mr. Eisenhower might well argue that, in the elections of 1956, the nation did place the responsibility for the legislative program in Congress on the Democratic party. This is an inescapable fact and so simple that every voter who understands the principles of the Constitution can grasp it at once. For the President cannot by himself make the laws nor can he use any force except the force of public opinion to persuade Congress to pass the laws he recommends and is willing to sign.

Impromptu Remarks Cited

There is a tremendous force in the impromptu remarks Mr. Eisenhower did make at his press conference, especially when he expressed his disappointment at the lack of action by Congress on "a long list of recommendations" that he made last January. He said:

"Of course I am disappointed, because these things that I talk about are not pet projects of my own. I have no particular personal reason—other than that of a concern for all the United States of America—for wanting them passed. But that reason is governing and controlling with me.

"As a matter of fact, it is the only reason I think anyone has a right to occupy the job I do if he does feel that way. And, therefore, for the sake of the United States, I am tremendously disappointed that so many of these bills have not been acted on, and in some cases they not even have held hearings. Now, the details of them, there is no use going into now. They are long things. They apply to everything from the country's finances, the welfare of our people, mutual aid—and right down the line."

None More Eloquent

Other Presidents, particularly Woodrow Wilson, have expressed in more formal language and style than this, but none more eloquently, the concept of presidential leadership which is fundamental in the American governmental system. The "hard-hitting," "give-'em-hell" speeches, with bitter denunciation of personalities, may make good headlines and dramatic television shows but such techniques under-estimate the intelligence of the American electorate.

For the President of the United States does not represent just a single state or congressional district or region, nor is he beholden to any pressure group. He alone represents all the people. Whether it is "mutual aid"—which is in reality not "foreign aid" but aid to the United States itself in a strengthened defense against potential enemies—or whether it is the drive for a better life on the home front, as reflected in the many pieces of domestic legislation now pending in Congress, the basic justification is to be found in the answer to this overriding question: is the program good for the people of the United States? That's the whole case and the whole opportunity for effective leadership by the President today.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CHICAGO — Have you got time to listen to a little story?

For two days before the AFL-CIO went into their secret high, executive huddle in the Drake Hotel, I had been investigating the background of William Lurye, the martyred hoodlum of Dave Dubinsky's union, who got his throat cut in a phone booth in the garment center in New York in May, 1949. Then, as David came out of one of those lodge-meetings with Meany, Reuther and the rest, I nailed him with Lurye's police and prison record including one term of one-year-to-life for burglary.

The cops in a tough neighborhood of the West Side of Chicago had run up almost a hundred burglaries against the rotating membership of this rodent gang, and the law allowed life for burglary although the best article the hoodlums got out of the particular job on trial was a suit that hocked for $35. So the judge buried the bum. However, Lurye was out in two years and four months, plus; and he was off parole in four more, and this was part of his schooling for the role of altruistic martyr for Dubinsky's union in New York.

As Dave emerged I said I had a document for him. As he put on the fumble for his glasses, I said "that is the criminal record of your friend Lurye."

"Friend of mine?" Dave exclaimed, and I tell you, Dave denied Lurye thrice in about one minute. Friend of his? Dave threw back his head and snorted through his nose and ears. "He was not my friend. He was not my picket. What do you mean he was mine? He was a picket employed by the union. Are you sure it is the same fellow?

I did not go into details there, but as I write this, I am looking sideways at a message from a connection who has access to information from an infallible source generally referred to as a reliable government agency. This memorandum recounted all the details of Lurye's career which were reported in these dispatches the last few days and added, "the records carry the notation, William Lurye—stabbed and died, St. Vincent's Hospital, date not given, but the print" that is, fingertip, "was received May 16, 1949." That was three days after Dubinsky and his sub-fuehrers of the Garment Workers' Union had turned out about 100,000 sorrowing subjects for one of the greatest funeral shebangs in the history of New York. It was only a few days after the fastidious New York Times had reported that the ILGWU had posted a $25,000 reward.

The next day, hearing that William C. Whalen, the chief of detectives, and Deputy Chief Inspector Walter C. Sullivan had declined to indorse his charge that non-union employers had hired the stabbing done by assassins, Dubinsky said he would cancel the big "demonstration" if the police had information that Lurye was killed "for any other reason." The cops kept still. If any power within the union had been guilty, they weren't telling.

The Times also related that Sacha Zimmerman, the old-time Trotsky-Stalin-Lovestone Communist, now a solid man of Dubinsky's hierarchy, had "passed on to the police the name of a man whom Mr. Lurye had accused of being 'out to get him.'"

"I give you my word of honor as a man," Dave said, "this is the first I ever heard of it!"

"Heard of what?"

"This record. On my honor as a man, this is the first. On my word of honor."

I said, "well, didn't you ever investigate him? You have a lot of local people. You could investigate. You say you didn't investigate this guy?"

Dave stopped dead. "Listen," he exclaimed. "Do they investigate you?"

"I don't know," I said. "They probably do. But you indorsed this fellow and gave him a 40-hack funeral and now you tell me you knew nothing about him and moreover he didn't even work for you."

"He didn't," Dave said. "He worked for the local."

The New York Times for Aug. 12, 1949 said, "65,000 unionized dressmakers in this city were ordered to stop work for four hours tomorrow and join a public protest against the murder of William Lurye, a special organizer....Mr. Dubinsky issued a statement, 'The cause for which Mr. Lurye died is beyond the power of threat, intimidation or even murder to stop. The ILG will cooperate to the fullest extent in hunting down the armed cowards and their paymasters who have now added murder to the other means by which they fight unionization.' The joint dress board sent telegrams to 2,100 shop chairmen instructing them to have workers go to the funeral" and to something extra which Dubinsky called "a protest parade."

Eight years later the same Dubinsky broke off his high-sounding howls against unethical conduct of unioneers less holy than himself to disown Lurye.

The New York Times said Lurye's "family" lived at 401 Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn. William's brother, known as Sam Kahn and Simon Lurye, a stick-up man, followed William into Pontiac Reformatory. All prisoners must file a record of relatives and others with whom they exchange correspondene. Sam Kahn/Simon Lurye's file lists as his first correspondent "Mrs. A. Kahn, 401 Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn," identified as "mother." The others include "Mrs. William Lurge," possibly a misspelling, "401, Alabama Avenue" and "William and Bernice Lurye, 401, Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn," listed in the record as "bro and sister-in-law."

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Tallman is a young flier with a soaring ambition — he wants to create a museum in the sky.

If you have an abandoned elderly airplane in your backyard (and pray who doesn't?), call Tallman. He wants it. Thousands today collect antique autos. Tallman is a pioneer in a newer and limited field — the preservation of antique airplanes.

Number Is Growing

He is a leader in the small but growing number of enthusiasts who seek to salvage for posterity the remaining winged remnants of the early air age. But the airplanes he finds and rebuilds aren't destined, he hopes, for a dusty museum. He wants to put them back in the sky — at America's air shows — where they belong.

"I don't think it's quite enough to see the color and beauty of the past, unless it's out in the sunshine working," he explained.

Flying long has been the main interest of Tallman, a slender 30-year-old man with a straw-colored mustache that makes him look like a British sergeant major. His father, a World War I naval pilot, let him take over the controls of a plane at 5.

Since then Frank has logged more than 6,000 hours in more than 75 types of aircraft, ranging from 1910 Bleriots to flying boats, gliders, bombers and jets. He was a Navy flier in the last war, has served as a test pilot, and is one of a comparative handful of U. S. airmen licensed to fly every type of plane.

Heart With Relics

But today his heart is with the wood-wire-and-cloth relics of the days when the air was an opening ocean to man.

"I was in the tailend of the helmet and goggle era of the open biplane," he said. "And I believe the fun in flying was then—when you could see it, feeel it, and smell it.

"The pleasure went out when they started putting on an oxygen mask, a hard hat, and an anti-gravity space suit — all worn in a pressurized cabin. When they took away the feel of the wind in your face, they took away most of the fun."

A year ago Frank made a hard choice — between a dream and a job. He quit a post as account executive for a broadcasting network and set out to assemble his flying museum.

He buttered his bread, meanwhile, by stunt flying for Hollywood, and by going to England to assembly a portfolio of portraits of vintage World War I war birds for True Magazine.

Has Only 9 Planes

So far Tallman has collected only nine obsolete planes (the 1910 Bleriot is his earliest, a Grumman wildcat his latest), but at that his collection is one of the world's largest.

"The old planes disappear quickly," he remarked. "Do you know that of all the thousands of Spitfires built in the last war, only two are left in the British isles? At least that is all I could locate there. Yet this is the plane that saved England."

Collecting and flying antique airplanes has one advantage over most other hobbies.

"You have to be sure before you take them up," Frank said cheerfully. "You only get to make one mistake."

Have Some Fun With This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

If you want to have some fun with today's hand, copy down the North and South hands and give them to your friends to bid. Seven spades is a lay-down but it is a fairly tough grand slam to reach by scientific bidding methods.

Of course a lot of North players will simply check for aces once they hear the opening spade bid and then go to spade grand slam. This method would succeed this time but it is not difficult to set up a lot of very sound spade bids which will leave no play at all for the grand slam.

When Al Merriam and Carolyn Levitt held this hand in the St. Louis regionals they solved their problem by inventing a series of bids.

Al responded three spades and Carolyn went on to four. She expected that the bidding was over when "lo and behold" Al bid five diamonds.

This bid was a new one to her and she wondered just what was going on. Finally she decided that Al wanted to know that she could handle the second diamond lead. Hence, in spite of her minimum high card holding and the fact that Al's bid had come as a complete surprise to her, she bid six diamonds.

This was enough for Al. He closed the bidding by a call of seven spades.

The article should probably have started by mentioning that Carolyn and Al won the tournament against a very strong field. If this is an example of their bidding it is easy to see why they did so well.

Lost in Woods Man, 90, Keeps Warm by Exercise

A 90-year-old Brooklyn man, a devotee of physical fitness, got more exercise than he bargained for Wednesday night when he became lost overnight in the Catskill Mountains near Round Top, Catskill state police reported.

However, John Whitman recovered his bearings early Thursday morning and found his way to civilization "in good condition."

Troopers said Whitman, a guest at a Round Top hotel, and "a great believer in exercise" went into the woods near the hotel about 4:30 p. m. for a hike.

It was reported 70 acres of land, marked by many trails, borders on the hotel and Whitman had traveled the trails many years since he started being a summer guest at the hotel.

Troopers said, however, that Whitman started "to cut back and forth" from one trail to the other through the woods and when it started to rain he became confused as to his location.

Attired in only a bathing suit, sneakers and a cap, Whitman managed to keep warm by doing physical exercise in the woods, troopers said.

A searching party from the Leeds state police station looked for Whitman unavailingly until 1 a. m.

Troopers said he found his way out of the woods about 8:45 a. m. Thursday, "and was in good condition."

He was only about a eighth of a mile from the hotel when he became lost, troopers said,

Mrs. Kasenkina, Who Jumped to Freedom, Citizen

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Olga Kasenkina, who risked her life in a jump from a third-floor window of the Russian consulate in New York nine years ago, has become a U. S. citizen.

She was among 100 persons naturalized before Judge William T. McCarthy in U. S. District Court here Wednesday. Secret Service agents accompanied her at the ceremony.

Mrs. Kasenkina, 61, was seriously injured in her jump to freedom. A teacher at a school for children of Soviet personnel in New York, she told police she had been kept a prisoner at the consulate, and decided the leap was her only way to escape being sent back to Russia.

In the international controversy that followed, Yakov M. Lomakin, Soviet consul general in New York, was returned to Russia at American insistence.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors, also Marbletown Post, 1512, American Legion, for their messages of sympathy, beautiful floral tributes and their kind acts shown during our recent bereavement in the loss of my loved husband and father Jerry J. Polinsky.

DemocratsPonder Strategy on CR

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans stood by today with their new civil rights compromise plan while Democrats pondered strategy.

Figuring in the situation was pressure from many members of Congress for an end to the impasse over civil rights. They want to go home. Some legislators already have left, without waiting for formal adjournment of Congress.

Expects Word Today

Rep. Keating (R-NY), a leader of GOP civil rights forces, said he expects the Democrats "will give us some word" today on what they decide about the Republican compromise, put forward Wednesday with President Eisenhower's endorsement.

But Keating, in an interview, would not predict the Democrats' course of action. Nor was Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) tipping his hand on any possible step to break the House deadlock over civil rights. The deadlock has been in effect since the Senate passed the bill Aug. 7.

The bill now is stuck in the 12-man House Rules Committee. Chairman Howard Smith (D-Va), a strong opponent of civil rights legislation, has refused to call a meeting of the group to act on the measure. A majority vote of the group's members is needed to call a meeting over Smith's opposition.

Would Force Parley

Rep. Bolling (D-Mo) said he has the support of five other committee Democrats in a move to force a meeting. Two of these Democrats were understood to be southerners who, in the event the committee does meet, would vote against clearing the bill to the House floor.

But even with the five other Democrats, Bolling still could not muster a committee majority to force a meeting. And the four Republicans on the rules group refused to go along with Bolling's move at this time.

Eisenhower has joined both Democratic and Republican leaders in calling for passage of a civil rights bill before the current Congressional session ends.

Push Celler Plan

The Democrats have been pushing a plan by Rep. Celler (D-NY) to accept the Senate bill provided its broad jury trial requirement is limited to voting rights cases. Beyond this limitation, they say, the Senate would not go in compromise.

The Republicans say Celler's plan alone would leave too weak a bill. But they say they would agree to it provided the Democrats agree to incorporate the new GOP proposal. The GOP plan would give federal judges limited powers to punish for criminal contempt in voting rights cases, without a jury trial. Such cases would arise if there were violations of injunctions the judge issued.

The Republican proposal provides that if a judge elects to try a criminal contempt case without a jury, he could not impose a fine bigger than $300 or a jail term of more than 90 days, or both. Maximum penalties for conviction by a jury would be a fine of $1,000 and six months in jail.

Rayburn said yesterday the Democratic chiefs are giving the GOP proposal serious consideration, although he said "that doesn't mean we are going to accept it in toto or say what parts we might accept."

Republicans were reported ready to agree to a watered-down version of their proposal, perhaps lowering the jury trial waiver.

Pleasant Weather Outlook for Nation

By The Associated Press

More pleasant weather was the outlook today for broad areas east of the Mississippi River and in the far west but rain clouds hovered over other sections of the country.

Thunderstorms extended from the upper Mississippi Valley southwestward into the central plains during the night, with some areas hit by severe storms. A few funnel clouds were reported in the Sioux Falls, S. D., area, which was hit by one inch of rain. Tornadic winds lashed the North Platte, Nebr., district.

Fair weather prevailed in most areas from the southern plains to the Great Lakes region and eastward to the Atlantic coast.

Colonel Takes Stand

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP) — Lt. Col. Walter P. Berger, charged with four counts of negligent homicide in the training exercise deaths of four soldiers, today took the stand to contradict testimony of another officer.

The four were killed and 13 others injured when 4.2-inch mortar shells fell short during the public demonstration at Ft. Sill June 22.

Lt. Col. Lloyd G. Swink, who served as an observer for the fatal exercise, testified yesterday it appeared to him the mortar rounds were falling short of the target. He said he ordered a cease-fire and asked if the firing was going according to plan.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—An earthquake jolted Taipei at 8:40 p. m. today causing buildings to shudder, window panes to rattle and lights to sway. The only damage appeared to be fallen plaster and a few cracked walls.

Kingston, 61 Other Cities Using Code

Maj. Gen. Edward J. McGrew Jr., chairman of the State Building Code Commission, in a statement released today, notes that 31 of the state's 62 cities, including Kingston, have accepted the state building code.

Acceptance of the code, he said, is due largely to growth in some cities, and others accepted it to qualify for federal aid under urban renewal programs.

Kingston has been operating under the code for some time, and among the other 30 cities were listed nearby Hudson, Beacon, Peekskill and Oneonta. Gen. McGrew also reported 73 towns and 122 villages operating under the code. Long Beach, L. I., was the 31st city to join.

Committee Passes Fund Bill for Power Reactors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved an Atomic Energy Commission money bill containing starter funds for three power reactors the administration doesn't want to build.

The committee yesterday approved an appropriation of $2,323,632,500 — 24 million dollars more than the House granted but 132 millions less than President Eisenhower originally requested.

The AEC Weapons program accounts for about 80 per cent of the funds involved. Other AEC construction projects also are included.

Eisenhower signed an earlier authorization measure on Wednesday with a statement indicating he did not regard it as requiring the AEC to construct the reactors, only to conduct studies and like preliminaries.

Democrats contend the legislation contains a directive to go ahead with preparations to build the nuclear power reactors.

Inquest Ordered In Hanging of 11-Year-Old Boy

SARATOGA SPRINGS (AP) — After a conference with delegates from a group of aroused citizens, the district attorney today ordered an inquest in the hanging death of an 11-year-old boy.

However, the district attorney, Carleton J. King, said Sheriff Wesley E. Devoe had performed his duty capably in investigating the death. More than 75 persons signed a petition Wednesday, saying they did not believe the death of Peter Curran of Ballston Lake July 20 was accidental. They charged incompetency on the part of the sheriff.

Atmosphere Cleared

Members of the delegation that met with King said later that they now were satisfied everything was being done to investigate the death and that "the atmosphere was cleared."

King set no date for the inquest.

The sheriff said yesterday his investigation was continuing. Coroner Roland Faulkner said he was standing by his finding of accidental death. He said the boy evidently had tied a rope around his hands and neck while at play in a tree and had lost his footing. The weight of his body apparently tightened the rope, the coroner said.

Reds See Libel Trial as Example Of Morals in U. S.

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio told the Russian people today the Confidential Magazine libel trial is an excellent example of morals in the United States.

The commentator—as do most Russians—pronounced the name of the U. S. movie capital "Gollyvud."

In its first comment on the case, the radio mouthpiece of the Soviet Union began by describing Confidential to its millions of home listeners.

"It's staff," said a commentator, "consists of ex-policemen and former private detectives whose duty it is to peep through key holes of Hollywood bedrooms and report on the private lives of the screen's famous stars."

"Gollyvud, apparently is not disturbed by this scandal," said he Muscovite commentator, "for its interest lies in profit making and it has always considered that publicity encourages profits."

"Great numbers of journalists and television reporters are reporting every word of the case," the broadcaster continued.

Why We Say--

RUST: This expression should be "as neat as a new pin." Before pins were tin coated or made of brass, they were made of iron and rusted quickly. Thus a new pin was a clean or neat one.

SLA May Ease Ban on New Store Licenses

ALBANY (AP) — The State Liquor Authority may ease in spots its 9-year-old statewide ban on new package-store licenses, it was learned today.

The authority admits it has been surveying the situation but maintains that no decision has been made and that none is imminent.

However, reliable sources report the agency is leaning toward relaxing its ban in areas that have experienced substantial population growth since the freeze was imposed in December, 1948. It was understood that action could be expected within the next three months.

The authority is proceeding cautiously because a relaxation of the ban might lead to a general clamor for licenses.

Those areas under consideration for additional licenses are the New York City suburban counties of Nassau, Westchester and Rockland, and, in the north, St. Lawrence County. St. Lawrence has had a boom because of the St. Lawrence seaway and power projects.

The authority is not bound by law to use population as a yardstick in granting liquor licenses.

However, the agency recently asked the state attorney general whether it might use special federal censuses to fulfill the legal definition of "population" in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz said it could.

All of the areas under consideration have contracted for special censuses in connection with claims for per capita state aid. The last regular census was in 1950.

A spokesman for the SLA said Lefkowitz' opinion was sought as part of a general survey of conditions surrounding the ban and a similar freeze imposed in March, 1956, on new applications for restaurant and hotel liquor licenses.

Both bans allow transfer of existing licenses.

A source close to the authority said the feeling was that fast-growing areas in the state should be allowed a few more package stores to accommodate the public.

He said there was no indication as to what might be done about the freeze on hotel and restaurant licenses. That freeze is scheduled to expire in January, 1958, but the authority could extend it. The moratorium on package-store licenses runs indefinitely.

Probe Finished On Steeves' Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. David Steeves will spend a couple of weeks at the Air Force survival school while findings of an inquiry into his 54-day disappearance in the California mountains are under study.

After that his future duties will be determined by the commander at Craig Air Force Base, Selma, Ala., Steeves' new regular assignment.

The Air Force announced the orders yesterday and at the same time gave out word that a "thorough but routine" investigation of the circumstances in Steeves' case has been completed at Bolling Air Force Base here.

A spokesman said results of that inquiry, which included medical and psychological checks, are still under study.

Steeves, bearded and apparently about 60 pounds under weight, emerged from the mountains with an account of injury and hardship after being forced to bail out of his jet trainer over the high Sierras.

The Saturday Evening Post has canceled an agreement to publish an article on Steeves' experiences, saying the writer assigned to do the story reported discrepancies. Steeves says he told the story as it happened.

The Air Force spokesman said the service has "no reason for either believing or disbelieving" Steeves' account.

Number Talk

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — You wouldn't have to know the language to reserve a hotel room in a foreign country, under a system being worked out by a State University of Iowa professor. Prof. Erick Funke head of the university's German department, calls the system Translingua. Under it you would simply substitute numbers for common words. For instance, if you wanted to cable "Arriving Monday. Reserve single room with bath" you would simply transmit "432-27.212." Dr. Funke feels that such a system might be a boon to travelers and hotel operators the world over. The numbers, he explains, would mean the same in any language and clerks could decipher the number messages by consulting dictionaries now being prepared by Dr. Funke and his staff.

Modern Wild West

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Night owls were amazed when they spotted a police cruiser chasing a stagecoach through the streets. The stagecoach, drawn by an auto, finally collapsed during the wild ride, dropping a door here, a wheel there. Police came upon the remains and the abandoned auto, then went to work tracking down the culprits. Four youngsters were arrested but released after they promised to pay the stagecoach's owner, I. J. Derosset, $600 for the wrecked stagecoach. The teen-agers explained they saw the stagecoach in Derossett's yard and decided to try it out.

Dutchess Girls Held For Petit Larceny

Three teen-age Dutchess County girls were arrested yesterday by Poughkeepsie police on petit larceny charges involving the shoplifting of clothing from three stores there for about the last three months.

They are: Barbara Jean Tillou, 17, of 81 North Bridge Street, Poughkeepsie; Sylvia Undello, 16, of 185 Union Street, Poughkeepsie, and Helen Ann Simmons, 16, Oak Street, Rhinebeck.

The three girls pleaded guilty today before City Judge Bernard McCoy and were remanded to the Dutchess County Jail to await sentencing on Tuesday, Aug. 27.

Reds Resume Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has resumed atomic tests with a blast of "substantial" power yesterday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced today.

A brief announcement from AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said:

"The Soviet Union has resumed testing of nuclear weapons at its Siberian proving grounds. A detonation of substantial size took place on Aug. 22."

The development comes in the midst of Soviet maneuvers in the London disarmament conference with the ostensible aim of cutting off all nuclear tests.

Safeguards Sought

The United States, while offering to call off tests for two years, is insisting on safeguards which the Russians reject.

The last previous AEC announcement of a Soviet nuclear weapon test came April 18.

That blast was described as as "one of the largest thus far in the current Soviet series." Strauss said it was the fifth in a series which began April 13. It was the 11th reported by the AEC since last August.

Was 24th Blast

Altogether, including today's announcement, the AEC has reported 24 Russian nuclear test explosions. Strauss, however, has made it clear that not all of those detected are reported. He says they are announced only when there are circumstances of special interest.

In general those circumstances appear to consist of the outline of a test series or blasts of unusual power. Today's announcement appeared to fall in the series category since there was nothing beyond the word "substantial" to indicate extraordinary power.

The 17-year-old beauty, who was graduated last June from Fulton High School, was named today by the judges. The fair is from Aug. 30 to Sept. 7.

She was one of 111 contestants. Mary succeeds Suzanne Crist of Rochester as queen.

Valedictorian of her graduating class, Mary will attend Syracuse University this fall.

Members of her court will include:

the present thruway interchange.

The 209-9W by-pass northward from a point on Route 209, near the Hurley Hotel, to 9W near its junction with the Routes 32-9W connection with the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, which is now under contract. The 209-9W by-pass will have a connection with Route 28, as well as with 9W and the bridge road.

To Eliminate Steep Grade

Plans are due to be ready this fall for contract bid on the rebuilding of a section of Route 28 from a point beyond Boiceville to the Pine Hill area, and it has been indicated that a large section of the upper part of this improvement will be on new alignment, especially at points where it will eliminate the steep Pine Hill grade.

The Shanahan Construction Co., Inc., was recently low bidder for the Eddyville bridge project, and state approval is expected momentarily. It has been indicated that work could be under way next month. The bridge to be built at a cost upwards of $700,000, will be a few hundred feet downstream from the present, narrow span.

Rescuers Uncover Body of Boy in 1,400-Foot Shaft

TIMMINS, Ont. (AP) — Rescuers this morning uncovered the body of 15-year-old Ronnie Blakemore as they dug into a mass of debris wedged part way down a 1,400-foot mine shaft.

Earlier, the rescue workers hauled 16-year-old Bonar Scholes from rotted timbers 20 feet down the abandoned gold mine's shaft. that poured into the shaft when he fell. He was hospitalized suffering from shock after being raised on ropes while only semi-conscious.

Plank Gave Way

The boys and three young friends were dropping rocks into the shaft to listen for echoes last night when a plank covering gave way. Two scrambled to safety and a third was pulled up from just below the edge.

The Old Vipond gold mine is just outside this gold mining and paper center of 30,000 persons about 175 miles north of Lake Huron and 175 miles east of Lake Superior.

Scholes was buried to his waist in dirt that followed him down the 25-foot square shaft.

Dug With Bare Hands

A rope was first placed around him to prevent another fall. After Dr. W. G. Bissonnette of Timmins was lowered by rope to administer a sedative and plasma, rescuers gingerly dug the boy free with their bare hands. He was reported in fair condition in the hospital.

As Scholes was brought up, Blakemore's hand was believed seen and rescuers began working toward the lad.

The mine shaft had been fenced off but apparently the boys climbed through a break in the fence.

Hoffa Would

line operators in Chicago a two-way radio device.

Hoffa said Dio was then an official of the Link Radio Co. in New York, but said he wouldn't call that a business transaction.

Hoffa said he also has an option on some Florida real estate, known as Sun Valley, and that Dio bought lots there after asking whether it was a good deal but that he didn't consider that a business transaction, either.

4th Day of Quiz

It was Hoffa's fourth day in the witness chair.

Committee chairman McClellan (D-Ark) has charged that Hoffa formed an alliance with Dio. Hoffa's goal was stranglehold power over union affairs on the eastern seaboard. Dio was to profit from shakedowns and raiding the dues of union members, McClellan claims.

Kennedy said Hoffa would be asked about sworn testimony of previous witnesses that it was Hoffa who cooked up the idea of granting Teamster charters to hoodlum-run locals in New York.

Grocery Chain Stores Advised for Stability And Continued Growth

Q. R. L. S., New Jersey, writes, "I have been advised to buy Safeway Stores and note that stock has risen quite sharply this year. Could you tell me what is behind the move? I would appreciate your comments on this or any other similar issue as a suitable purchase for a rather conservative old fellow."

A. The steady advance in Safeway both this year and last is a tribute to the late great Charley Merrill, who founded the famed brokerage house of Merrill Lynch. Mr. Merrill, an important Safeway stockholder, was responsible for a change in management which brought in a new president, Mr. R. A. Magowan. Under Mr. Magowan the company was thoroughly reorganized. Marginal units were abandoned and a number of modern markets were added. Costs were reduced through internal economies and a downtrend in earnings in 1954-55 was sharply reversed. Profit margins widened and net income nearly doubled in 1956. Earnings were up 40% in the first half of this year. The payoff came August 14 when Safeway announced that it would split its shares 3-for-1 and raise the quarterly dividend to 75 cents from 60 cents paid previously. The stock yields close to 4% on the new dividend and in my opinion has not outrun its growth possibilities.

Food Chains Are A Stable Group

For the conservative investor the food chain group offers relatively good income and continued growth prospects. If I were asked to characterize these stocks in a single phrase, I would say, "extreme stability". By their very nature, food chain stocks resist cyclical extremes. This does not mean that individual issues are not at times subject to fluctuation. They are. In recent years there have been considerable variations in earnings and price levels among the food chain issues. These have been due to rising costs and intensified competition in some areas, particularly where trading stamps have been a factor. Generally speaking the chains appear to have overcome these obstacles, margins are widening and volume increases are tending to overcome the trading stamp problem.

Other Recommended Food Chain Stocks

High on my list of favorites in the group is Kroger, serving the Middle West. The company has shown a 1956-57 improvement in earnings somewhat paralleling Safeway's. A stock split here cannot be ruled out. First National Stores dominates the New England market, has an excellent growth record and sells to yield over 5%. I particularly like Winn-Dixie, which has been one of the fastest growing chains, serving a wide area in the South. Stock has more than doubled in value since 1954 and growth is expected to continue, though at a more moderate rate.

TRUE OR FALSE

CONVERTIBLE BONDS PROVIDE A GOOD HEDGE AGAINST MARKET DECLINE

TRUE. A good convertible bond combines the safety of a fixed income security with capital gains prospects in a common stock. The conversion features makes this possible. To illustrate: Daystrom Inc. has an issue of 4¾ per cent debentures that are convertible into the stock of the company at $33.33 a share. In other words $100 of debentures can be exchanged for 3 shares of Daystrom common at any time until the bond matures in 1977 or is called prior to that date. The bond recently sold in the market at $133 and the stock at 44⅜. This means that the bond sells at or very close to the total value of three shares of stock. Should the stock decline below 33, the bond would sell around 100. From this point any further decline in the stock should not be importantly reflected in the bond which could then expect good support on institutional investment buying. In my opinion, sound convertible bonds have a distinct advantage for the investor who desires to protect his investment but who seeks the speculative advantages of a common stock.

Nevada Blast Throws Glow Over Coast

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—A blood-red fireball burst over the Nevada desert today as the United States touched off the 13th atomic explosion of the 1957 test series.

The flash of the blast at 5:30 a. m. was visible over a large area of the west.

Downtown buildings in Los Angeles were bathed in a flashbulb-bright glow. The flash was visible in San Francisco in spite of a heavy fog.

Newsmen Barred

Newsmen, barred from the test site, witnessed the explosion from Angel's Peak, 45 miles from ground zero.

The device was exploded from a captive balloon 1,500 feet above the Yucca Flat test grounds.

The dark red fireball flared briefly, then faded. A mushroom cloud quickly rose from it. The cloud raced high into the sky, the rays of the rising sun turning it a snowy white.

Then, as the top of the mushroom detached from the writhing stem, the brightening sun turned the cloud pink.

It paused half a minute, a giant powderpuff cloud poised 36,000 feet above ground zero. Then it began to drift slowly to the north northwest.

Today's test was roughly one-half of nominal in power. A nominal bomb is equal to 20,000 tons of TNT.

Today's blast, code-named "Doppler," was originally set for Monday and was postponed to today because of weather and technical difficulties.

There were 41 missions by military planes, and eight scientific tests conducted in connection with the explosion.

Four hundred and fifty military observers viewed the test from trenches 3,000 yards from ground zero. Among them was a platoon from a crack Canadian regiment, the Queen's Own Rifles. The platoon was assigned here from its base at Calgary, Alberta.

The military men did not take part in any maneuvers after the blast.

Veteran Climber Dead

TERRACE, B. C. (AP) — Death of one of Canada's foremost mountaineers in a fall while attempting to scale an unclimbed peak in northern British Columbia was reported last night.

Fellow-climbers arrived here to tell of the death Tuesday of Maj. Rex Gibson of Saanichton, B. C., president of the Alpine Club of Canada, in a fall 250 feet down a gully of 9,000-foot Mount Howson, 40 miles east of here. Two others of a five-member climbing party also were injured in the fall.

The climbers said the body of the major was left tied to a rock at the scene. A rescue party planned to fly there in a helicopter today to recover the body.

Fire Still Spreading

ALTONA (AP)— Fire-fighters today battled flames that had eaten through more than 500 acres of scrub forest near the U. S.-Canadian border.

H. D. Carlton, treasurer of the West Chazy fire district, said the fire still was spreading but more slowly than previously because winds had diminished.

The fire was in a desolate area north of Plattsburgh. It would threaten four or five farmhouses if it continued to race northward.

Carlton said no injuries had been reported.

The flames broke out Monday and were kept to a relatively small area for three days. They burst out of control yesterday afternoon.

it will seek a substantial wage increase in new contracts.

GM has been the first to reply to the union.

Would Freeze Pay

An extension of contracts, as Curtice proposed, would freeze the pay of more than a million auto factory workers at present base levels though not infringing on cost of living changes. The auto worker's present average pay is about $2.30 an hour.

Curtice backed his contract extension proposal as a "contribution to economic stability" for the nation. He said it would have "a most constructive effect, even beyond our industry."

The General Motors president's only specific reference to the union's car price cut proposal was a statement that GM's prices were "not properly the subject of collective bargaining."

Knitwear Firm Being Picketed

Pickets were walking today near the plant of the Colonial Knitwear Co., Inc., 18 Pine Grove avenue after reported lack of agreement between management and the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, Local 259.

John Riccardi, agent for the union, said the strike started yesterday afternoon after failure of management and the union to get together on the negotiation of a new contract. The dispute, he said, primarily involves wages, and affects between 110 and 115 employes of the plant.

Police headquarters was notified at 3:55 p. m., yesterday that picketing was in progress. It was described as orderly and continued today.

Riccardi said he was unable to give details of union terms pending the outcome of further discussion today.

Syria Charges

stay and fight for the Syrians when Syria feels the time has come to try to roll Israel into the sea."

Correspondent Donald Wise wrote that the Russians are estimated already to have sent Syria 250 tanks and 60 MIG jet fighters.

Diplomatic sources in London said meanwhile that Syria's anti-Communist neighbors plan to isolate her in an effort to cordon off Soviet influence. The Arab neighbors are Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq and Turkey.

Against Intervention

The informants said the United States and Britain have decided against any open intervention against the leftist trend. This course was decided, they said, because Syria and other nations might consider the recent developments an internal affair.

The Arab neighbors are reported already consulting on the situation and apparently have agreed to break Arab unity if necessary to quarantine Syria. Diplomats said yesterday's flight of Jordan's young King Hussein to Turkey was related to the consulations, even though billed as a private trip for rest.

Meantime, Moscow Radio charged that western powers had criminal designs on Syria. An English language broadcast said the U. S. 6th fleet had been hurriedly dispatched to the Syria's Mediterranean Coast.

The U. S. Navy already had said the fleet was on routine maneuvers around Italy.

Think Group

the formation of the eastern-south, eastern group set the stage for an expected rugged battle this fall over tolls. The seaway is to be opened for ocean-going vessels in 1959.

"That organization is not interested in getting a fair toll established," said Rep. Blatnik (D-Minn). "They're just against a seaway—period. Now that it's a reality, they're going to try to wreck it."

Blatnik said the organizers of the group, the National Committee for Nonsubsidized Seaway, comprise the same elements that opposed the seaway in Congress for many years.

'Critical' Is . . .

choice which is in the more critical situation. At least in Highland we have water."

While in Highland town officials have recourse to the river as a means of supply, Edinger said, Kerhonkson does not have the same choice.

In Kerhonkson, Rondout Creek is no longer available as a source due to "industrial pollution." Stony Kill is in the "next watershed" which would require about a mile or a mile and a quarter of pipe, but Edinger said a few days ago he doubted that the stream "has any water."

Strict Conservation

Both communities, he noted, must abide by strict conservation methods in view of their present plight.

Both the Kerhonkson and Highland communities have been quite disturbed over dwindling water supplies and are taking steps for some more permanent solution to their problems.

At a recent public hearing in Highland some 300 people directed by a show of hands that they were sympathetic to expenditure of up to $400,000 for additional sources of supply—probably from the river.

A Kerhonkson group, headed by the Lions Club, has indicated that it is willing and ready to proceed with petitions for formation of a water district which would absorb the present Kerhonkson Water Company.

Decision . . .

the "more friendly attitude" of Dulles and said he hoped the State Department would extend its decision to other newsmen.

Critical on Limitations

Humphrey and some others criticized the limitation on the number of newsmen to be permitted to travel to Communist China.

Dulles designated 24 news organizations and authorized them to send one reporter apiece. He said these were the organizations which had replied affirmatively to a poll on the question of stationing a full time American correspondent on the China mainland for six months or longer. Officials said fewer than 100 replies were received to Dulles' survey of selected news organizations.

The Associated Press assigned John Roderick, now stationed at Hong Kong, to represent it in Communist China.

Depends on Results

The passports of the 24 newsmen will be validated for travel to Red China. The validation will last for seven months, dating from yesterday. Since Dulles contemplates a trial period of six months, the extra month presumably is to allow for travel.

After the experimental period is over, Dulles will decide whether the arrangement has worked out. Officials said the chief factor in his decision would be whether the newsmen were able to report freely.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Sluggish trading and lower prices prevailed in the stock market early this afternoon.

Key stocks were down from fractions to a point or so. A few issues took steeper losses. There was also a scattering of gains.

The market was almost duplicating yesterday's dull performance which followed two days of recovery from the big break of Monday. hesitation regarding near-term prospects of the market was increased by normal pre-weekend caution as many traders and investors stayed on the sidelines.

Copper shares continued to decline on the latest weakening of copper prices. The rise in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Banks of New York and Cleveland after yesterday's close made the higher rate unanimous for the country.

Steels, oils, chemicals and nonferrous metals were generally lower. Losses among motors and rubbers were slight. There were some gains among aircrafts and selected issues.

Chieftain Blames Seaway

Urges Canadian Tribe Move To Schoharie Ancestor Land

CAUGHNAWAGA, Que. (AP) — A young Indian chieftain is sounding a blood call for Canada's Mohawks to follow him southward and dwell in the hunting ground of their ancestors.

He says more than 2,000 Indians from reservations in Quebec at Caughnawaga, Oka, and St. Regis, their way of life changed by the St. Lawrence Seaway, may answer his call.

They would settle in New York State beside the Schoharie Creek near its junction with the Mohawk River, where drums of their forefathers echoed in the wilderness two centuries ago.

4,000 Are Expected

Chief Standing Arrow, known to the white man as Francis Johnson, 24, a U. S. Navy veteran, said today 400 Hawk Indians now live on the banks of the Schoharie. He is leader of the Mohawks' Turtle Clan. By next summer, he said, 4,000 will live there. He wants their Canadian tribesmen to join them.

"Quite a few" of the Mohawk Indians now living in the Schoharie Creek valley formerly lived in Canada, Chief Standing Arrow said. "The reason they have settled there is because of political pressure from the Canadian government."

He said a decision by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority to send the waterway through the Caughnawaga Reservation is unfair.

"The Canadian government has no right to interfere with the sovereignty of the tribe," he added.

Sees Benefits

The Mohawks will benefit by moving to New York State, he said, because "it is their original home and by treaty they have every right to live there."

Chief Standing Arrow visited Caughnawaga this week to confer with the six Longhouse chiefs on the reservation and invite them to attend a grand consulate meeting of the Indian confederacy of six nations Sunday in Fort Hunter, N. Y. It will be the first meeting of its kind held in the Mohawk Valley in 163 years.

Out of it is likely to come a decision by the Indians whether to remain in their new Schoharie Creek community. If they decide to stay, the Indians may call for large-scale emigration from the reservations.

The Indians settling along the Schoharie have turned a deaf ear to arguments presented by a farmer and the New York Thruway Authority, both of whom also lay claim to the same section of land, the chief said. The settlement at present is a modest collection of shacks, tents and tepees located where the Schoharie passes under the Thruway.

Chief Standing Arrow said the Mohawks are a nation—and any deals will have to be made through Washington. The Indians are asking an area eight miles long and seven miles wide, stretching along the Schoharie south of the Mohawk.

The chief backs up his people's claims with photostats of old treaties, one of which was signed Oct. 22, 1784, by the United States government and the assembled chiefs of the six nations confederacy, which includes the Mohawks.

The treaty allowed the white men to roam over the Ohio River Valley in exchange for rights to a 60-mile wide strip of land stretching through the heart of New York State from Buffalo to Albany.

GOP Scores Ave On His Role in Force Benefits

ALBANY (AP) — Two Republican legislators have accused Gov. Harriman of hypocrisy and deceit in claiming credit for state legislation to extend social security benefits to policemen and firemen.

Sen. Frank E. Van Lare of Rochester and Assemblymen Malcolm Wilson of Yonkers said yesterday, "in reality he fought tooth and nail" against the legislation.

Harriman, in a telegram to New York members Wednesday urging passage of a bill in Congress, had said it would dovetail with state legislation "which I sponsored and approved" earlier this year.

Congress completed action on the measure Wednesday and sent it to President Eisenhower. It would allow New York and several other states to provide the coverage.

Bill Excluded Two

Van Lare and Wilson, who sponsored the measure passed by the Legislature and signed by Harriman, said that the bill offered by the Harriman administration excluded police and firemen while proposing to give it to other state and municipal employes.

They said Harriman's telegram was "one of the worst examples of outright hypocrisy and deceit which his office has attempted to perpetrate on the people of the state."

It followed, they said, his "pattern of attempting to take credit for statutes conceived, sponsored, supported and approved by Republicans."

Reporters Renew Visa Bids to Enter Red China

HONG KON (AP) — American correspondents granted U. S. permission to work in Red China today renewed visa applications in telegrams to Peiping. They had been told earlier the visas would be granted.

King Peng, information chief of the Communist Chinese Foreign Ministry, advised Americans here last month that visas would be approved as soon as the U. S. State Department granted clearance.

The Red China travel service said at noon today it had no word from the Communist capital on granting visas to the six Americans already waiting here to enter China. The service will handle travel arrangements for the reporters.

Barred Since 1949

Reporters have been barred from the mainland since 1949, first by the Communists themselves and later by State Department regulations.

Six American reporters waiting here encountered delay at the U. S. Consulate which said it had not received instructions from Washington. American passports now are stamped invalid for travel in Red China and the 24 passports belonging to correspondents will presumably be changed.

Plane Tow Line Cuts Power Again

SYRACUSE (AP)—An Air National Guard plane dropped a two-target cable on a high tension power line yesterday. It was the third such accident in this area in recent months.

Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. officials said the metal cable fell across a 115,000-volt line north of Syracuse and curtailed service for a short time in Brewerton, Cicero, South Bay, Mexico and Parish.

The Air National Guard said the cable was released from a jet plane coming in for a landing at Hancock Field.

In July; a man died of electric shock when he came in contact with a tow line that had been dropped across a power line and had started a fire in a field near Oswego. Last week, another fire was started when a tow line fell across electric cables near a large shopping center north of Syracuse.

Fate of Perrine's Bridge

Editor, The Freeman

The fate of Perrine's Bridge still remains undecided and those who have an interest in the old historic structure are being called upon to exhibit their wishes concerning the final decision of the Board of Supervisors.

The public hearing held at the Court House in Kingston, on Monday, August 12 appeared to end in a draw as to the fate of the bridge. One extremely heartening idea that was very strongly presented was that the bridge should be preserved. Public opinion seems very definitely opposed to having the bridge removed from the location where it has always been and naturally should stay.

The local Grange organizations of our county have shown a vital interest in keeping the bridge. The main issue at the present time appears to be money to maintain the bridge in in proper state of preservation and the problem of removing it to dry land if the Board of Supervisors are convinced that the bridge is causing the flood conditions of recent years. Actually it was brought out at the meeting that the bridge is only one cause of the flooding in the Wallkill Valley and it could not be proved that the removal of the structure would eliminate the condition. The Central Hudson Dam and the shelf of rocks in the river were brought into the picture as causes for the flood condition. Many ideas were presented, but the one that seems most unfortunate for the preservation of our historic sites was the one proposing that the bridge be moved to another area and placed under the supervision of a private individual. That would spell the doom for the bridge. Historic sites should never be in the hands of an individual. Lack of money and the matter of short duration of preservation make such a move most impractical. There is no question that the saving of Perrines Bridge will take money! Please see or write your supervisor.

Smelters Announce New Cut in Copper

NEW YORK (AP)—Custom smelters have lopped another one-half cent off their price for copper, reducing the price to 27¼ cents a pound.

The reduction, the second such cut in as many days, left smelters 1¼ cents below the major producers' level of 28½ cents a pound. Custom smelters, who refine copper from purchased ores and scrap, turn out considerably less metal than producers.

Industry circles said the second cut was due to a lack of buyer reaction in response to yesterday's slash.

Time Will Prove If Hoffa Showed Sense at Quiz

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa—no matter what else happens to him—is not going to look like an unselfish, modest-living hero of American labor after the Senate Rackets Committee investigation.

His attitude toward the world seems to be: "They don't come too big for me." He sounded tough, cocky and fortright when — not knowing what he'd be hit with—he announced he'd answer the committee's questions.

It remains to be seen whether the 44-year-old boss of Teamsters union in the Midwest also showed good sense.

Past Is Dug Into

This committee has done a digging job on him: into his financial dealings, his associations, his plans and ambitions. It even has wire-tapped recordings of his telephone conversations. And he took an oath to tell the truth.

Hoffa is being asked a lot of questions covering years. Any witness under oath who makes a misstep—by stating as fact what turns out not to be—can wind up charged with perjury.

But Hoffa faces no such problem if he says he can't remember matters about which he's asked. After three days of watching Hoffa have memory trouble, Sen. Ives (R-NY) commented on Hoffa's "convenient forgettery."

Yet if Hoffa had done what Dave Beck did—duck questions by taking the Fifth Amendment — he might have ruined 25 years of climbing up the union ladder to power just when the top prize is in sight.

Hopes to Succeed Beck

Hoffa hopes to succeed the discredited Beck as president of the 1½-million-member Teamsters Union, biggest in the nation, at its September convention. Hoffa was bouncy Tuesday when he first faced the committee. After three days he looked strained.

The picture the committee is trying to paint of Hoffa is not pretty: a tie-up with hoodlums and ex-convicts, led by Johnny Dio, and a drive to extend his power from the Midwest to control of New York Teamsters.

The committee has brought out that Hoffa borrowed $120,000 — of which he says he still owes $70,000 —from various sources, including subordinates among the Teamsters, and $21,000 from his own local in Detroit.

Leventhal's Remodeled Shop Ultimate in Artistic Design

The newly remodeled Leventhal's, 288 Wall Street, one of the finest fur shops in New York State, is the dream and inspiration of the man who founded the business in the year 1900—Hyman Leventhal.

The brilliant new store, which has expanded into a fine line of casual wear, was established by Mr. Leventhal at the turn of the century when he came to Kingston from New York City.

50 Years of Progress

The new store marks the culmination of more than half a century of progress and pioneering in its field.

It was the first store in Kingston to install a modern front and windows lighted by electricity.

It was the first "exclusive" fur shop.

It was the first to engage in the cold storage business and the first to install a cold storage vault for the protection of furs.

Dream of Founder

The entire program of remodeling was the dream of the founder, it was reported today by Reuben Leventhal, his son, who now operates the business. His father retired about seven years ago because of ill health.

The founder of the shop, whose linguistic ability is legend (he speaks about six languages), was born in a little Polish village near the German border. Leaving home at 13, he arrived as a mere child in the city of Liverpool, England.

Started Young

In Liverpool Mr. Leventhal, himself the son of a furrier, worked as a furrier's apprentice and by thrift managed to save enough money to book passage to America, traveling in "steerage." Arriving in New York city at the age of 15, he plied his trade as an apprentice furrier in the "sweatshops" of the metropolis.

In time his circumstances began to improve and he decided to pull up roots and move to Kingston. Here in 1900 he opened a fur store in the old Argus building located on Wall Street between the Ulster County Courthouse and the Kingston Savings Bank.

Mr. Leventhal was also a licensed real estate broker and gave some of his time for many years to this field "as a kind of hobby."

Caters to Celebrities

Mr. Leventhal, a member of Ahavath Israel, recalls some rather fabulous people who visited his shop at one time or other during the past 50-odd years.

HYMAN LEVENTHAL

His reminiscences include an occasion when Ina St. Claire, the famous film actress, ordered a "magnificent flowing wrap." Galli-Curci was also a visitor in the shop, as was John P. Phillips of Phillips Drugs, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lyons of Pittsburgh, the great steel family, the Gunnisons, owners of the Brooklyn Eagle, and many others.

Mrs. Lyons ordered 23 fur coats on one occasion as Christmas gifts for the lady employes of her personal staff.

Recalls First Vault

He recalls vividly the installation of the first cold storage vault in 1927. Furriers came from all over the country to examine the vault and to inquire why furs should be kept in an "icebox."

"Folks laughed," he says. "They couldn't understand why anything but food should be kept in an icebox." But today, he points out, every furrier has a cold storage vault.

Mr. Leventhal has three sons and two daughters. Reuben, the youngest son, and one of the daughters, Lillian, are in the local store.

The two eldest sons, Jack and Harry Leventhal, operate one of the largest wholesale fur markets in this country, occupying more than 20,000 square feet of floor space at 130 West 3t0h Street, New York City.

Besides the wholesale business they have opened departments throughout the nation—Buffalo, Niagara Falls, York, Pa., Pittsburgh, Pa., Providence, R. I., Topeka, Kan., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

They recently acquired the business of W. H. Hall who has been in the fur business for the past 104 years.

Jack and Harry got their start in a small loft on 26th Street, prospered and expanded.

Remains With Father

Reuben elected to remain in Kingston with his father and has been associated with the business since 1920.

Reuben married Sylvia Lewton of Brooklyn in 1938. They have two daughters and a son—Barbara, 18; Donna, 14, and Steven, 10. Barbara, now in her second year at Syracuse, is an honor student on the Dean's List. She is planning to teach.

Reuben, a member of Ahavath Israel and Temple Emanuel, is a lover of the out-of-doors, having hunted and fished throughout the Northeastern section of this country and in Canada. He was also a topnotch bowler in the old City League—now confines his activities mostly to golf.

New Department

Mrs. Reuben Leventhal heads the new department of casual wear at Leventhal's. The store now offers a line of wear including domestic and imported cashmere sweaters, shirts, blouses, separates, slacks, Bermudas, coordinates and leather garments "from the finest makers in the world."

The new store is quite strikingly handsome. At the far end of the store is an oval room with a rotunda-type ceiling from which hangs a Spanish crystal fixture. The rotunda, used as a salon, is an attractive wedgewood blue. At one side of the salon is a floor-to-ceiling mirror.

The entire store, which is air-conditioned, is laid with thick wall-to-wall carpeting. There is a dressing room in the front section of the store and two in the rear. Also in the rear are the stock rooms, dry cleaning plant, etc.

The front show window, which rises from floor to ceiling, is set at floor level. A "screen" of ornamental ironwork divides the show space from the rest of the store.

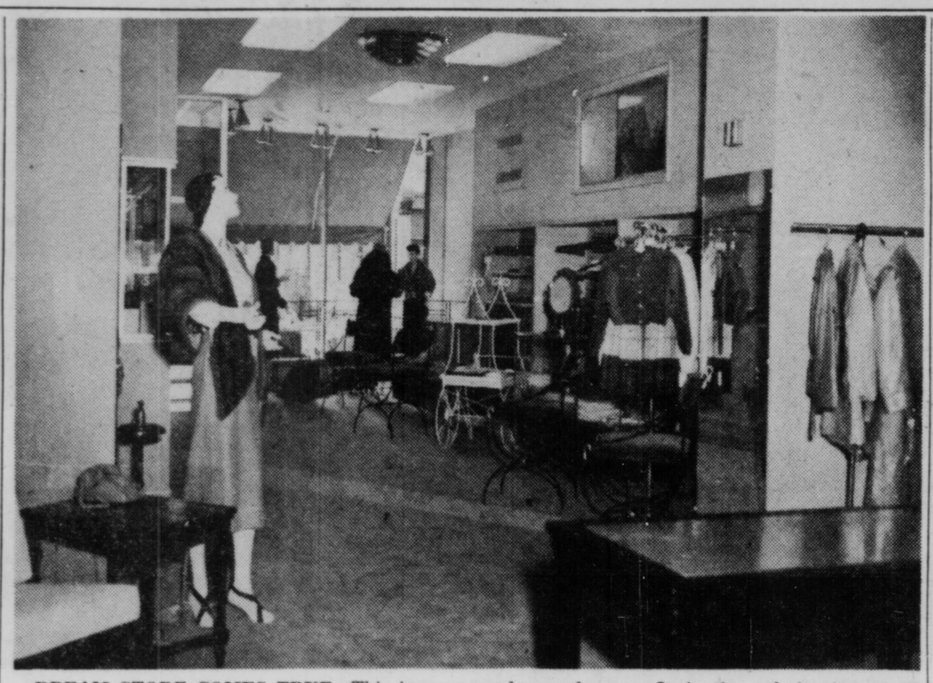

The handsome new facade is of Dakota granite with "Leventhal's" in steel lettering. The lettering was designed by a commercial artist in 1927.

A shale gray color predominates in the front section of the store where are located the casual wear, "shadow boxes" set in the upper walls for display purposes, open sweater bins of glass, etc.

The front part of the store is lit up by fluorescent lighting, the salon by spot and indirect lighting.

Show cases are of brass and black marble. Grecian chairs with rose velvet cushions are available for customers.

The Women's Wear Daily, a large publication with national circulation within the trade, has requested permission to do a pictorial feature on the store, it is reported.

DREAM STORE COMES TRUE—This is an interior view of Leventhal's, 288 Wall Street, remodeled to coincide with the ideas of Hyman Leventhal for the merchandising of fine furs and casual wear. It is the culmination of 50 years experience by Mr. Leventhal, one of Kingston's leading businessmen. (Freeman photo).

Call Him George

DALLAS (AP) — Everything is "real George" now for Mr. Otsuka. He told Judge D. B. Wood his last name was just fine. He added he'd like to change his first name, Catzuma to Kazumi and use it as a middle name. But what he really wanted, he said, was a new first name. Judge Wood granted his complicated wish. So now he's name George Kazumi Otsuka.

Redistribution Of Saugerties Pupils Delayed

The redistribution of Saugerties Central School pupils will be delayed until the completion of the new 10-room Mt. Marion School now scheduled for opening November 1, it was announced by Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of Saugerties Schools.

Many of these pupils prior to the summer recess attended schools now permanently closed. The board of education has made provisions for reopening three of the one-room area schools—West Saugerties, Blue Mountain and West Camp, until such time as the new Mt. Marion building is ready for occupancy.

Receive Assurance

Two representatives of the board met with a representative of the builder and of the architects at the Mt. Marion School this week and were given assurance by the builder that the work there would be completed not later than November 1.

The board was advised by the architects that George Bowman, engineer of Hudson, has been appointed clerk of the works for the local construction projects.

The two rooms completed in the new Mt. Marion building will be used for kindergarten and first grade when school opens Wednesday, Sept. 4. Others designated for registration at the Mt. Marion building will continue classes at their present location until redistribution is affected. Les Lilas, Mt. Marion boardinghouse is no longer available for classes this year.

Appoint Janitor

The board at their meeting this week appointed Francis Kugelman, janitor at the seventh grade building, the former St. Mary's School. He will continue his duties at the Hill Street School. An oil burner was installed last year in the Hill Street School.

The board authorized the transportation of three or four trainable pupils to the special class for trainables that is being established in Kingston beginning September. All costs for the attendance of these pupils at the Kingston class, except for one half of the transportaion, is reimbursable through state aid. The pupil's acceptance into this class is subject to the Kingston Schools being able to accommodate them.

The first man who loses 100 pounds would be the winner. He said yesterday he plans to go on a diet anyway, "so why not make it a contest."

26th Przhevalski Horse Foaled at Area Game Farm

CATSKILL (AP) — The Catskill game farm reports that the 26th Przhevalski horse in the world was foaled at the farm yesterday.

Roland Lindemann, president, said the broad-hoofed horse was the first of its kind born in the United States in 42 years.

Of the 26 Przhevalski horses in the world, he said, 10 are at the game farm.

The horses are named after a Russian explorer who found them in central Asia's Gobi Desert. The dun-colored animals are an intermediate between a horse and an ass.

Lindemann said the Przhevalskis are virtually unchanged from prehistoric times.

Sam Levene, Roxanne Will Have Top Roles In Next Hyde Park Playhouse Show Aug. 26

Two plays, two hits, no errors, is the batting average of George Axelrod whose hilarious hit comedy "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," starring Sam Levene, veteran Broadway and Hollywood actor and beautiful Roxanne of TV fame, opens Monday, Aug. 26, a the Hyde Park Playhouse.

Running this week through Aug. 24 is Axelrod's Broadway smashing success "The Seven Year Itch," featuring Allen Swift and Salome Jens.

"The Seven Year Itch" is now providing a hilarious romp at the Playhouse, with Mr. Swift, producer, in the lead role of the husband left alone in a New York City apartment who develops "The Seven Year Itch." Salome Jens enacts the part of the girl upstairs. Vivian Fox appears as the domestic wife and Bernard Grant plays the suave family friend. John Marley has directed this romp of a summer bachelor with inventiveness and a bubbling pace. The swank set was designed by John Bolt.

In the merry farce "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," Axelrod spooks with gleeful accuracy the film industry and its assorted executives, renegade writers and dim-witted glamour queens.

The gala play tells of a naive young writer who, in his eagerness to reach the heights, sells his soul to a beguiling Hollywood devil-type agent.

Sam Levene, who played the role of Nathan Detroit of "Guys and Dolls," plays the Faustian agent in the new Playhouse offering. The glamorous Roxanne is cast as the sultry flamboyant starlet.

NAVEC Seen Harmful To Veterans' Groups

BUFFALO (AP) — The Disabled American Veterans have formally called the National Assn. of Veterans Employment Councils potentially harmful to other veterans' groups.

In a resolution unanimously adopted at its national convention yesterday the DAV declared:

"It is believed that NAVEC's mass mailings of unordered merchandise, accompanied by appeals for donations, are harmful to the DAV as well as other congressionally chartered veterans' organizations."

DAV leaders said the NAVEC was organized several years ago to promote employment for disabled veterans. Its headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

The spokesmen charged that the council's record to date showed much fund-raising activity but little placement service.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

A HUSBAND'S OPINION

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister's husband and fourteen-year-old son are planning on taking a motor trip to Canada for a week. I thought I would like to go along with my thirteen-year-old daughter. My sister cannot go and neither can my husband. I would very much like to make the trip with them as I feel I need a change. My sister is urging me to go. However, when I mentioned this to my husband he was shocked that I would even think of such a thing and refuses to let me go on the grounds that it would be highly improper. I am very much surprised at his attitude and think he is being very narrow minded. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: I do not think anyone will criticize you for going on the trip you describe, but if your husband feels strongly about this you should not go.

Appetizers Before Dinner

Dear Mrs. Post: When serving cocktails at home before a dinner party should I serve appetizers? Some of our friends provide quite an assortment of them, but I think when dinner follows immediately, there is little excuse for filling up on snacks beforehand. What is usually done in fashionable houses?

Answer: In best appointed houses, one cocktail apiece and nothing edible is served immediately before the announcement of dinner. The intention is to sharpen the appetite for the foods and wines at dinner, not to dull it.

A Widow's Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: When a widow starts going out with other men, don't you think she should remove her wedding ring? It seems to me that this could be very embarrassing to a man whose friends might get the impression that he is going out with a married woman.

Answer: She does not need to take her wedding ring off until she is engaged to another man. If this bothers him, she could wear it on her right hand to show that she is no longer married.

Two Added to CP Personnel To Aid Expanding Program

With the needs for its services continually increasing, United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County, Inc. has added two new members to its staff and plans one of its busiest years — beginning in September—at its center, 400 Broadway.

Latest additions to the staff—which brings the full-time force to five—are Mrs. Mary Caughey, who will serve as chief therapist of speech and hearing and Miss Rose Greco, speech therapist.

Mrs. Caughey comes to the local center from Brooklyn College where she served as senior therapist for 11 years.

Miss Greco, a graduate of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., comes from Buffalo.

Needs Increasing

"The addition of Mrs. Caughey and Miss Greco to our staff is indicative of the increased needs at our center and because of their background and extensive experience we feel particulary fortunate in securing them," Dr. Henry L. Bibby, president, said.

While five persons serve the center on a full-time basis, there are, altogether, 12 who are associated with its operation. These include a medical director, Dr. Saul Rjtchie; three consultant specialists, a psychologist, bracemaker and secretary.

75 on Summer Schedule

An intensive summer program, made more active because of the summer school recess, is reaching a conclusion. Approximately 75 persons were included in the treatment program during the summer.

Mrs. Charlotte Peck, director of the center, expects that effective Sept. 1 the treatment program will be geared to handle 125 cases.

The number of treatments vary, she explained, from daily to monthly treatments, depending on the individual case.

She noted that if parents are interested in therapy for their children, particularly in speech and hearing, during the fall season, they should contact the center now.

Only Place in County

Mrs. Peck pointed out that the center serves all cerebral palsied and physically handicapped children throughout the county, "and ours is the only place in the county where they can receive this type of treatment."

The age group is from infancy to 18 years, she explained, in noting that one child, 11 months old, recently was fitted with a hearing aid at the center.

Another service of the center is bracemaking in charge of Karl Ostertag. Brace fitting and adjustments also are done for adults by appointment.

In Sixth Year

Now in its sixth year—it opened December, 1951, the CP center schedule is indeed a busy one, providing therapy, treatment and new steps toward a better life for the cerebral palsied and physically handicapped.

The center performs a herculean task well in the overall cerebral palsy crusade.

"There is no cure for cerebral palsy," Mrs. Peck explained, "but there is help available."

Like other human ills, "the problem of CP has always been with us," but she indicated that it is only in the past decade that there has been any concerted attempt to minimize its effect on the individual and therefore on the community.

"The response from the community toward maintaining our program signifies its need and is not only an incentive, but a mandate, for us to justify continued support.

Russians Working On Theory About Time, Fast Travel

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Russian scientists are working on a project which might be used to prove or disprove the theory that time slows down on objects traveling at high speed.

Their immediate goal, as explained by one of them last night, is to produce an electronic wave which does not vary in frequency by more than one part in 100 million.

The slowdown hypothesis is a part of the Einstein theory. In effect, it says that time passes more slowly on objects travelling at great speeds and that it stops altogether for one travelling at the speed of light.

Light travels at more than 186,000 miles per second. The most accurate methods of measuring at present do not detect any slowdown of time on objects moving that fast. They do show things traveling at near the velocity of light increase in weight and this added weight reduces their speed.

By developing a methods to measure time in trillionths of a second or even finer than that, scientists might be able to detect incredibly small chronologic a l slowdowns on things traveling at rocket speeds, such as velocities of a few thousand miles an hour. This might be done by harnessing a rocket with a microwave transmitter that would send out a wave of near perfect timing.

If this wave itself slowed down on the speeding rocket, it would demonstrate the validity of the Einstein relativity effect on time.

Steps toward producing such a precise wave were described to the western electronics show and convention by Prof. A. M. Prochorov, a member of a 16-man Soviet delegation attending the meeting.

Prof. Prochorov and two colleagues, L. V. Krasilikova and V. I. Siforov, addressed the meeting in English, with occasional help from an interpreter provided by the U. S. State Department. They were applauded vigorously for their presentations.

Stern Judge Will Sit at Trial of GI

(Editor's Note: The controversial trial of U. S. Army Specialist William S. Girard will begin Monday in Maebashi, Japan. This is the last of three articles on the Japanese nationals who will have major roles.)

By FRED SAITO

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—A tall, guant man of 50 stalks like a pensive stork through the streets of this quiet rural city nightly, a shopping bag swinging from one arm.

Bow as He Passes

Neighbors and passersby bow low as he passes. He returns their salutes but does not stop to chat.

In the tiny four-room house where he lives alone, he prepares his evening meal as a handsome German shepherd dog watches from beneath a chair.

The man is District Judge Yuzo Kawachit, who will preside at the trial of Sp. 3. C. William S. Girard, accused of fatally shooting a Japanese woman on a U. S. military firing range last Jan. 30. The trial opens here Monday. There will not be a jury.

Follows Conscience

In 21 years on the bench, Judge Kawachi has become known as a stern man who follows the dictates of his conscience and who does not yield to pressure. He won a measure of fame by refusing to bow to Japanese army pressure while serving as a civilian army judge in Indonesia during World War II.

"Don't think I am a misanthrope or a stoic after seeing how I live here," Kawachi said with a smile during an interview.

On Bench Since 1947

"Every weekend I go to my Tokyo house and rejoin my wife and three children," he said. "They have to live in Tokyo because of the children's schooling. This way of life is as painful to me as to any one—particularly for a judge who must live with dignity, at a low salary."

Kawachi has been district judge in this rural city some 80 miles north of Tokyo since 1947.

"A judge is not a diplomat and it is not good for a judge to stay long in one place where many persons with questionable motives try to befriend him," he sighed.

Kawachi, who reads widely and plays chess for relaxation, enjoys a high reputation in this province.

Last July 19, 1957 Kawachi sentenced to three years in prison a Japanese charged with "bodily injury resulting in death" of a man—technically the same charge as that faced by Girard.

Says Life Precious

"Human life is precious," the judge told that man.

Of the Girard case, he said:

"I have not found out all the facts of the case. I plan to go out to the scene in the firing range Sept. 6 and 7 to carry out an one-the-spot survey. But do you think the U. S. Army orders its men to shoot and kill a woman without challenge?"

Japanese police in this city have quoted Japanese witnesses as saying Girard "enticed and induced" Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46-year-old shell picker, before he shot her to death with an empty cartridge fired from his rifle grenade launcher.

Kawachi, answering his own question, said, "I don't know enough about U. S. Army regulations. . .I don't know. But in case his commanding officer told Girard to shoot her, does an American serviceman have to obey orders without questioning? I don't know. I must find out."

Kawachi graduated from law school of Tokyo's Hosei University in 1929, became a judge the same year. In 1944-45, he was a civilian administrator in Java, Indonesia, supervising court proceedings in the Japanese occupied area.

"After the surrender I was kept in Indonesia prisons until February 1947 when I was repatriated," he said. "I was not a war criminal, though."

French Star May Be First 'Name' Witness at Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — French actress Corinne Calvet may be the first "big name" to testify in the Confidential Magazine libel trial which resumed today.

The defense has said it planned to call Miss Calvet as a witness after Fred Meade, who with his wife operated Hollywood Research, Inc., leaves the stand. The prosecution is scheduled to cross-examine him today.

Says Story 'Untrue'

Miss Calvet was the subject of a Confidential story which she says is "absolutely untrue."

During the trial's one-day recess yesterday two more subjects of Confidential stories made emphatic denials. They are actress Mae West and Mrs. Josephine Dillion, Clark Gable's first wife.

Miss West said it was untrue that the late boxer Châlky Wright lived in her apartment for a year. She added:

"How could Chalky live with me for a year? At that time (1935-36) I lived at the Ravenswood apartments in Los Angeles. Everyone would have known. The entire story is silly." She said he was her chauffeur for four months.

Edward Conroy, Miss West's attorney, said Wright came into his office in September 1955 and signed an affidavit in which he denied any misconduct with Miss West and said the Confidential story was completely distorted.

Gable's Ex-Wife Out

Gable's former wife said that the Confidential stories "have wiped me out completely" as a dramatic coach. She said her only regular income is $49 from social security.

The story published in July 1956 said Mrs. Dillon, now 72, was in financial difficulties and that Gable was unconcerned.

Former Confidential editor Howard Rushmore had testified for the prosecution that Francesca de Scaffa, whom he identified as the magazines' chief Hollywood information source, told him she had an affair with Gable to get the story about Mrs. Dillon.

"Impossible," said Mrs. Dillon. "Anyone who knows Clark, knows that he wouldn't do a thing like that."

Gable and Mrs. Dillon were married from 1924 to 1930. Gable, 16 years her junior, had been Mrs. Dillon's student.

Would Make Long Play Record of U. S. Anthem

NEW YORK (AP) — A plan has been proposed to make a single, high-fidelity, long-play record of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Under the plan the recording would be made available free to the nation's 150,000 schools, and for an as yet unspecified fee to all radio and television stations.

The project was announced yesterday by Louis Schweitzer, owner of FM radio station WBAI, New York, who claims current recordings of our national anthem mostly are antiquated.

Study Is Underway Of Milk Marketing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has begun a study of the marketing and distribution of milk used for manufacturing in the New York-New Jersey market.

Dr. Harry C. Trelogan, head of the department's marketing research division, said yesterday the step was taken after two conferences between department personnel and representatives of the industry in the area.

The study is headed by Dr. D. A. Clarke Jr., on leave from the University of California. He will have a staff of economists with headquarters in the agricultural marketing service offices at New Haven, Conn.

Patterson Kayoes Rademacher in Sixth to Retain Crown

CHALLENGER MEETS CHAMPION—Pete Rademacher, right, the amateur who tried to win the heavyweight championship in his first pro fight, came face to face with the champ, Floyd Patterson, for the first time yesterday at the official weigh-in at Seattle, Wash. Rademacher came in at a surprising light 202 pounds while Floyd weighed 187, the most he's ever carried into the ring. (AP Wirephoto).

Champ, Decked in 2nd Round, Drops Foe Seven Times

End of Bout Comes In 2:57 of Sixth

By JACK HAWINS

SEATTLE (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the cool destroyer who holds the world heavyweight championship, cut down powerful Pete Rademacher last night and turned to dust the big guy's dream of stepping from the amateur peak to the pinnacle of the pros.

Giving away 15 pounds — the champion weighed 187 to Rademacher's 202—Floyd decked the courageous challenger seven times before Pete took the full count at 2:57 of the sixth round.

But, to the consternation of thousands who regarded this as a mismatch, Patterson was the first man to hit the canvas. Midway in the second round Rademacher crossed a right to the champion's jaw. Floyd seemed to slip as he sagged, but he went all the way down and the knockdown counter at ringside had reached the tally of four when he got back up.

Ruled No Knockdown

Referee Tommy Loughran waved off the count, ruling it no knockdown, but later in his dressing room Floyd said he was bowled over by the punch.

The professional began to show his superiority over the Olympic titlist in the third round, leaping from a crouch to spear Rademacher with a straight right that sent the big guy sprawling.

He took a nine count and was back on his feet at the bell, but the crowd of 16,961 had its tipoff on the outcome.

In the fifth round Patterson really found his range. Four times he blasted Pete down in that round, and four times the farm boy from Grandview, Wash., struggled up at the count of nine and tried valiantly to match blows with his tormentor.

Referee Solicitous

Loughran went to Rademacher's corner after the bell to ask Pete if he was all right and got a smiling nod. But Pete appeared tired and hurt, and the few blows he landed in the sixth lacked sting. He clinched, and as Loughran moved in to separate them Patterson poured home a left and then a right. It was the next-to-last knockdown.

Patterson threw a left and this time as Rademacher struggled wearily to his feet the referee waved Patterson away. Most ringsiders thought Loughran was stopping the fight, but the referee said the count had reached 10 and it was a knockout.

After the battle Rademacher offered no alibis and Patterson was high in his praise for the challenger, who had dreamed up this fight and made it real. Rademacher is the first man ever to step from the amateur ranks directly into a heavyweight championship fight.

Floyd Praises Foe

"He has all the qualifications of a future great fighter," Floyd said.

"When somebody is chopping at you with an axe you have to go down eventually," grinned Rademacher, holding a hunk of ice to a slightly puffed eye.

The bout drew a gross gate of $243,030—far short of the anticipated full-house $400,000. Rademacher's backers—a group of Georgia businessmen—put up Patterson's guarantee of $250,000 and took both fighter's share of the gate—60 per cent of the $209,556 net or just under $125,500.

Patterson said this would be his last fight in 1957. Asked if he would fight again now that he has become a professional, Rademacher said that was something he would decide "later."

"He is," said Loughran of Rademacher, "the most courageous fighter I have ever seen."

Loughran, who was sole judge, scored the first two rounds for Rademacher and gave the rest to Floyd. The Associated Press card agreed, except for calling the first round even.

Schacht to Donate Services For Exhibition Appearance Next Tuesday at Stadium

Al Schacht, the inimitable Clown Prince of Baseball, has informed Manager Fred Davi of the Kingston Colonials he will donate his Tuesday night fee to the Colonials baseball team of the New York-New Jersey League. Schacht, originally scheduled here in June, had to cancel out because of the death of his mother.

"Semi-pro baseball is having a hard struggle trying to keep alive these days and teams like the Kingston Colonials are doing a great job keeping live baseball in small communities. I'm happy to donate my fee to this cause. Baseball needs men like Fred Davi and outfits like the New York-New Jersey League."

Sharing the program with Schacht's incomparable act are the Boston Hoboes and their bag of tricks and the Kingston Colonials. Schacht is shown above going through one of his hilarious routines.

NY-NJ Slugger Faces Colonials In Saturday Go

A top New York-New Jersey League slugger who is a scholarship ball player at Forham University leads the New York Bullets against the Kingston Colonials Saturday night at Dietz Stadium.

The twi-night doubleheader is scheduled to get under way at 7 o'clock.

Irving Sussman, the Bullets' third sacker and cleanup hitter, was tied with Newburgh's Jack Schoenberger in the latest Compilation of NY-NJ averages with a whopping .488 in 10 games.

Sussman was credited with 20 hits in 41 times at bat. The Colonials are likely to catch him on the rebound as he went "4 for 0" against Clark Mains of Saugerties last Saturday at New York.

Manager Fred Davi will have two strong right handers to throw against Sussman—Ernie Souza of Bridgeport and Jack Houghtaling of Kingston.

Braves' Logan To Drill Monday

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Dr. Irwin Schulz said that Milwaukee Braves shortstop Johnny Logan is expected to leave Milwaukee Hospital today and begins workouts in County Stadium on Monday.

Logan has been hospitalized for treatment of an infected area near his shin bone which had been injured on the Braves last stand at Cincinnati.

Dr. Schulz said it could not be determined immediately when Logan would rejoin the team, now on an eastern road trip.

NL Leaders Suffer Big Blows

Musial, Buhl Hit By Injuries

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Injuries moved smack dab into the middle of the National League pennant picture today with right-hander Bob Buhl, a 16-game winner for first-place Milwaukee, and Stan Musial, the batting ace for second-place St. Louis, hit by shoulder miseries.

Adding to the Braves' woes, outfielder Wes Covington has been sidelined for "four or five days" because of a pulled heel tendon—with shortstop Johnny Logan, outfielder Billy Bruton and first baseman Joe Adcock already on the injured list.

Buhl Goes Home

Buhl, who has won seven straight in Milwaukee's climb to the top although bothered by an inflamed shoulder for a month, returned to Milwaukee for treatment last night as the Braves, playing like champions, plunked third-place Brooklyn 7½ games behind with a 6-1 victory at Ebbets Field.

Musial, the bat leader at .340, gave way with what a preliminary examination revealed as a torn muscle suffered while batting in last night's 6-5 victory at Philadelphia which kept the Cards within 6½ games of first.

Team trainers said Musial may be out several days — "perhaps week." An x-ray examination was scheduled today for the 36-year-old star, who is gunning for a seventh bat title while padding a league record for consecutive games played.

Reds in Tailspin

In the other NL games, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 8-3, the Redlegs' 10th successive defeat and the longest slump of the year in the league. The New York Giants defeated Chicago's Cubs 6-2.

The New York Yankees reverted to form and banged Kansas City 11-4, regaining a 6½ game edge over the idle second-place Chicago White Sox in the American League race. Boston whipped Cleveland 11-3 and Detroit trimmed Baltimore 4-0 on the four-hit pitching of Frank Lary.

Boston's Ted Williams, hitless for two days, had two singles in four trips, putting his leading average at .386. Yankee Mickey Mantle, who also had been without a hit for two days, was 1-for-4, but lost another point for a .377 mark.

Aaron Hits 35th

It was a breeze for the Braves, with Hank Aaron's 35th home run a three-run first inning shot that was all Lew Burdette needed for his 12th victory. The veteran right-hander tossed a seven hitter and walked but one in winning his first as a starter in Brooklyn since 1954. He hadn't beaten the Brooks anywhere in four decisions since July 13 of last year.

Sal Maglie lost it for a 6-6 record, giving up five hits and four runs in his five frames. The Braves had 11 hits in all—three each from Red Schoendienst, who hit his 14th home run, Ed Mathews and Bob Hazle, who has a crisp .500 average in 52 at bats as Bruton's stand-in.

Harry Simpson hit a grand-slammer in a six-run third for the Yankees, now 17-3 against the A's after losing two in a row. Johnny Kucks, Wednesday's loser, won in relief. Yogi Berra also homered for the Yanks, off bonus lefty Dave Hill, making his first appearance. Mantle was 0-for-11 efore singling ahead of Yogi's blast.

Guerreri Tightens Grip As Trapshoot Leader

Jimmy Guerreri tightened his grip on first place among the individual shooters in the Ulster Trapshoot Circuit with another perfect string of 25 in a meet at Rosendale.

Guerreri's average is a nifty .899 after action last Sunday. The next shoot is this Sunday at New Paltz starting at 1 p. m.

Prophecy Fulfilled

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22 (AP)—A year ago today that Bobby Bragan made this prediction: "If, on Aug. 22, 1957, a lot of faces on this club (the Pittsburgh Pirates) haven't been changed, there will be one face conspicuously absent." Bragan was dropped as manager of the Pirates Aug. 3.

Sugar Ray Adamant After Governor Turns Down Plea

Governor Harriman declined yesterday to intervene in the dispute between middleweight champion, Sugar Ray Robinson, and the International Boxing Club.

Robinson had appealed to the governor to arbitrate the bitter dispute between him and James D. Norris over television arrangements for the Sept. 23 championship bout with Carmen Basilio.

After learning of the governor's action, Robinson said:

"The commission can suspend me, vacate my title or do whatever they want. But they won't get me to fight for Norris under these conditions. He's violated our contract. I've always had trouble with him and the IBC. The fights I have with Norris before each bout are always tougher than the ones I have in the ring."

Lester Piggott, winner of the Laurel International race in 1955, won both the English Derby and German Derby in 1957. He is an English jockey.

Stoneham Sees Giants Stronger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Horace Stoneham said yesterday the transplanted New York Giants should be drawing 1,400,000 fans annually in San Francisco within two years after they move here from the Polo Grounds.

He predicted the Giants should be strong enough to deliver San Francisco its first World Series soon.

'We have some strong men of our own coming up,' the president of the National League club told a press conference. 'Three of them are in military service. We should be able to give you a first place soon.'

Stoneham who flew to San Francisco for a quick look-around after the Giant board of directors approved a transfer, said the contract completing the transfer is expected to be signed around Oct. 1.

De La Torre's 65 Leads Milwaukee Open 1st Round

Milwaukee, Aug. 22 (AP)—A home town professional, 35-year-old Manuel De La Torre, fired a five-under-par 5 to lead first round play in the $35,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

De La Torre, pro at the Milwaukee Country Club, parlayed a set of hot iron into nines of 33 and 32 to take a one-stroke lead over Bo Winninger of Odessa, Texas and Jackie Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y.

Five players were tied with 67s and eight others with 68s.

De La Torre, who has won the Wisconsin Open three times, played par golf the first seven holes, then found the range with crisp irons to bag five birdies on the next 11 holes.

Dick Mayer, La Jolla, Calif., the National Open champion, failed to appear for his tee-off. He notified officials by telephone that other commitments prevented him from making the trip.

Logart Risks No. 2 Rating With Byars

DETROIT (AP) — Cuban welterweight Isaac Logart risks his No. 2 ranking tonight against up-and-coming Walter Byars of Boston in a 10-round bout at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

Logart, who says he is two years stronger than the 24 years the record books indicate, has a wide edge in experience over the light-punching Easterner. In 61 professional fights, Logart has won 50.

He is a solid 11-5 favorite to defeat the 25-year-old Byars. The ex-Marine who has had only 21 pro bouts, but has won 16 of them.

The fight tonight will be nationally televised and broadcast (10 p. m., NBC-TV).

Lord Chuck in Rich Trot

Hawks Repulse Eagles To Take 2nd Half Title

The Hawks won a convincing 12-2 victory over the Eagles to clinch the second half championship yesterday in the Jaycee Little League.

The two clubs will launch a best-of-three championship series Monday at 6 p. m. The second game will be Tuesday and if a third is needed it will be played Wednesday.

The teams went into the game tied for first place. A triumph by the Eagles would have given them a sweep of league honors.

John Falvey blanked the Eagles until the last inning when they tallied both their runs. He wound up hurling a neat two-hitter and fanning 10.

Hawks ripped Alan Tucker for eight hits including doubles by Dave Burns and Pete Goldfarb. Tucker whiffed 11 and walked nine. Falvey passed three.

In the completion of a July 21 suspended game, the Wrens edged the Crows, 6-5, to cop third place. The Wrens had to go one extra inning to pull out the victory.

Jeff Sperling was the winning pitcher and Jim Moore the loser. Sperling struck out 12, two more than his rival.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE — Floyd Patterson, 187, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., stopped Pete Rademacher, 202, Grandview, Wash. 6. (world championship defense).

LOS ANGELES — Neal Rivers, 160, Los Angeles, and Tiger Al Williams, 158, Los Angeles fought 12-round draw.

Virgil Akins, the welterweight boxer, has fought professionally since 1948.

So, the Giants are dead—in New York. And San Francisco has them for beter or for worse.

And, as P. J. Beichert, the eminent Port Ewen baseball historian and Giant fan to the Armageddon, once quipped: "After San Francisco, the next move west is the Pacific Ocean."

Horace Stoneham, oblivious of the changing times, but honest to admit that the profit motive caused the Giants to switch to Frisco, might properly have asked many times in the last five years: "Where are the good old Giant fans you read about?"

The Giants have been fighting a losing battle for the fan's buck since the 1954 pennant season when 1,059,539 customers filed through the hallowed Polo Grounds gates.

Since 1951 the highly inadequate successors to the MacGravian legends attracted only 4,404,816 compared to 5,439,805 for the hated Dodgers and 7,543,569 for the opulent neighbors across the Harlem River. And without the dynamic Willie Mays in the lineup the statistics would appear even more dismal against the Jints.

The Giants enjoyed only one million-fan take since 1951, in 1954 when they routed Cleveland in the World Series. The Yankees and Dodgers, meanwhile, have been over the million mark steadily since 1946. The Dodgers rolled up two one-million-customer seasons before the Yankees made it for the first time in 1946 and the Giants did it in 1945.

• Trail in All-Time Records:

The all-time attendance records for the respective parks also find the Giants running third. The Yankees with five straight 2-million plus years—from 1946 through 1951—drew their tops—2,373,901—in 1948. The Dodgers' best was 1,807,526 in 1947, the same year the Giants had a 1,600,793 aggregate for the club record. With a larger stadium, the Dodger figures would have equalled or surpassed the Yankees.

If Stoneham was quoted correctly in the historic press conference confirming the switch to the coast in 1958, he said something like this:

"Baseball is a sport, but you need money to run it." (U. S. Supreme Court, please note).

And if there was ever any doubt in your mind that baseball is strictly a business, completely devoid of sentiment and tradition, the Giant switcheroo to Frisco should dispel any lingering doubts. The parking conditions, TV and other trivia were just the same in 1951 as they are today. The Giants padded their payrolls to major league record proportions. They refused to take a good, hard look into the future when the Yankees and Dodgers were constantly changing and rebuilding championship teams. So let them take their brown paper bags to the West Coast and change their name to the Seals. Because they ain't the old Giants we used to love to root against.

• The Mail Bag Department:

W. W. McKay of Saugerties inquired several days ago if any player in either the American or National League ever struck out more than three times in one game. The answer is obviously yes. Several players have whiffed five times in one game, but it remained for Carl Weilman of the old St. Louis Browns to set the major league record when he struck out six times in the course of a 15-inning game against the Washington Senators on July 25, 1913. . . . Brother W. Schreiber of Hurley urges more sports page space for swimming, bathing and water safety topics. Quote Mr. Schreiber: "Ulster county is well divided by the Esopus, Wallkill and Rondout creeks and the feeder streams. With the present day machinery clamshells and bulldozers, good swimming holes, picnic areas or parks should be found in every township. Somebody owes the people of Ulster County a good swimming hole, as the one at the old covered bridge at Mt. Marion was ruined by the new bridge and thruway project. Mr. Schreiber admonishes us to read Walt Whitman's "Bare Foot Boy" and come up with a "masterpiece" on these related items.

RED MADE THE DIFFERENCE: For two years General Manager John Quinn of the Milwaukee Braves maintained he had to get a second baseman before his club could win a pennant.

This year he came up with Red Schoendienst from the Giants.

"Schoendienst," Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Redlegs remarked, "he makes the difference."

He also is making the difference for Quinn. It is the first trade Quinn has made with the Giants which didn't give the New Yorkers a pennant-winning combination—and leave the Braves out in the cold with a large headache.

Brooks Tie ALL Series

The Dodgers bounced back to tie the best-of-three series for the American Little League championship yesterday, whipping the 156th FAB Red Sox, 9-3.

The deciding game is set for tonight.

Len Bovee's three-run homer in the sixth highlighted a four-run outbreak and sparked the Dodgers to victory. The score was 5-3 at the time.

Dan Pugliese succeeded in scattering seven Sox hits neatly while his mates were pounding Lance Sussin for a dozen blows. The Dodger twirler fanned a gaudy 14 and walked but one. Sussin whiffed five and passed nary a man.

Ken Horne doubled twice in a losing cause. Other two-baggers were credited to Bob Ploss, Bob Smith and Ron Thomas.

Briton Claims Channel Record

DOVER, England (AP)—Cmdr. Gerald Forsberg, 46-year-old British naval officer, today claimed a record of swimming the English Channel from England to France in 13 hours, 33 minutes.

He returned by boat from Cap Griz Nez in France, where he landed in darkness after a strong swim from St. Margaret's Bay near here.

Forsberg, whose preparations on the British side were almost unnoticed, swam eastward, while 22 men and women in a mass competition were swimming westward. Greta Anderson, of Denmark and Long Beach, Calif., won the westward race with time of 13 hours, 53 minutes.

Forsberg's effort was independent of the mass competition. He was accompanied by a boat piloted by Ben Bailey, of Deal. The commander's time was 22 minutes better than the previous East-West Channel record, set two years ago by America's Florence Chadwick.

Patty-Mulloy Duo Top Young Stars In Grueling Match

BROOKLINE, Mass., (AP) — Three remarkable returns of slams forcing an error carried Wimbledon champions Budge Patty and Gardnar Mulloy to a quarter-final victory yesterday in the National doubles tennis tournament.

The top-seeded oldsters rallied from the brink of elimination and defeated youngsters Mike Green and Myron Franks, 6-4, 7-5, 6-8, 1-6, 9-7 in a gruelling 2 hour 45 minute match at Longwood Stadium.

Patty Does Impossible

Three times the youngsters slammed returns across the net, and three times the 34-year-old Patty made seemingly impossible returns of upper cut slices at the ball. The third time Green hit out to end the match.

Australian fourth seeds Roy Emerson and Bob Mark looked better than their countrymen Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper earlier in the tournament as they crushed Straight Clark, of Philadelphia, and David Harum, of Coral Gables, Fla., in the other men's quarter-final. The scores were 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Clark was sub-par due to a touch of flu.

Other quarter-finals are set for today.

Women's Results

In the final pair of women's quarter-finals, top-seeded Louise Brough and Mrs. Margaret Dupont brushed by Ann Shilock, of England, and Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode, of Forest Hills, 6-0, 6-1.

The seasoned tandem of Mrs. Mary Hawton, of Australia, and Mrs. Pat Todd, of La Jolla, Calif., pulled a mild surprise in upsetting England's tennage twosome of Christine Truman and Ann Haydon, 6-3, 6-4.

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the United States Trotting Assn. admits that a Michigan man identified as an associate of James R. Hoffa, teamsters union leader, had been licensed to drive by the USTA although he was denied a license in New York State.

George P. Monaghan, New York State harness racing commissioner, testified at a hearing on his competency yesterday that his office had refused to grant Owen Brennan an owners' license in New York on Feb. 2, 1955.

Later, Lawerence B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., president of the USTA, testified that Brennan had a 1957 USTA driver's license and had raced four times in Michigan this season. The USTA has headquarters in Columbus, Ohio.

Bisons, Leafs In Showdown Set

By The Associated Press

The Buffalo Bisons and Toronto Maple Leafs, fighting down to the wire in the International League pennant race, lock horns tonight in their biggest test of the season.

Toronto, a half game in front after last night's 7-2 victory over the Montreal Royals, opens a three game series in Buffalo tonight. The Bisons, meanwhile, kept in pace with a 4-3 decision over the Rochester Red Wings.

The third-place Richmond Virginians, have dropped seven games back as the Havana Sugar Kings defeated them 7-1.

The Miami Marlins pulled to within a game and a half of fourth place with a 10-4 decision over the Columbus Jets.

Contenders Lose In Eastern Loop

By The Associated Press

A tense pitching duel enlivened the cellar of the Eastern League last night while the Binghamton-Schenectady pennant competition was immobilized by defeats for both clubs.

Ken Andersen of the last-place Springfield Giants overcame Jack Wall of fifth-place Allentown in a 1-0 battle at Springfield. Both sides were held to six hits.

The league-leading Binghamton Triplets suffered their second loss in a row at Albany, 10-4, as the Senators took advantage of loser Cleo Lewright's wildness. Schenectady, however, remained 2½ games behind in the race by dropping a 9-4 decision to the Reading Indians, now five games out in third place.

Konsek Leads Jaycee Golfers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A gangling youth from Lancaster, N. Y., carried a precarious two-stroke advantage into the third round today of the 12th annual International Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament.

John Konsek, New York's 17-year-old junior champ and Jaycee titlist, shot par yesterday on Ohio State University's 6,810-yard, par 36-36—72 layout to take the lead at the halfway mark.

He parlayed his 72 with a first round 73 for a two-day total of 145. In second place with a 71-76—147 was Jackie Nicklaus, Columbus, Ohio, still the favorite to win the 72-hole medal play competition.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

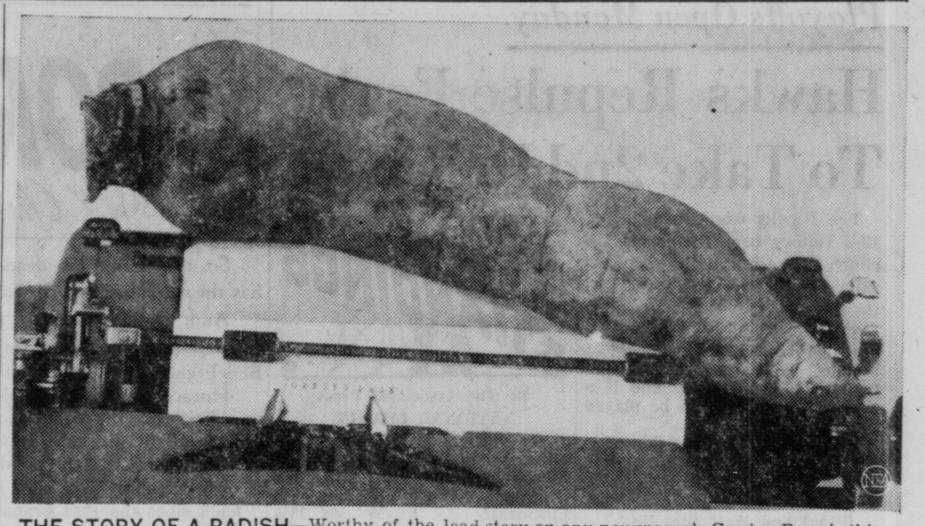

Usually when one goes to a meeting or gathering, folks who haven't been there ask, "So what happened?" After attending the first meeting in Kingston of the Hudson - Champlain celebration, to be held in 1959, presided over by the famous Hudson River author, Carl Carmer. I am at a loss of words to cover such a gathering of local and state officials. It was held at the Court House August 20.

No doubt many folks have read Carl Carmer, "The Hudson" and enjoyed it. I saw a number of folks get their books autographed by Mr. Carmer. He is a much younger man than I expected. He looks like an athlete. He has a sense of humor. He has a charming manner and cannot be led into an argument, and that to me, is a rare quality, when it comes to a historian. For instance about his most popular book he said in part: "The Hudson book, was a great mistake because I left out nearly everybody's grandfather," and in speaking about the replica of the Half-Moon being reproduced again by the Dutch he said in part: "The Dutch live a long time and they are liable to ask, "What did you do with the last one?" He explained as most of the readers know, that it was burned by vandals up the river.

I did not get to personally speak to Mr. Carmer except to get his autograph as he was surrounded by dignitaries and his picture being taken all around. He certainly knows his history up and down the Hudson. He considers our section: "the most beautiful landscape in the world . . . this lovely beautiful spot . . ." He wants this celebration to be a festival and a celebration and of course authentic and at the same time make money for the various communities. He comes from good thrifty Dutch stock. Two of his ancestors came from Amsterdam to Kingston back in the early days and there is record that they sued for back pay. Later they went up the river, but the family continued to live somewhere within calling distance of the Hudson till Carl Carmer came along to write about it.

This festival will start down in New York in January of 1959 and will work its way up through the cities and villages to Lake Champlain at the end of the year, thus taking in all the seasons. According to the committee it is hoped to have both state and federal money to run the main events and the communities will run their own. They are working on definite plans now. Many villages and towns and counties were represented at the August 20 meeting and made known their historical landmarks and other data

As a resident of Rondout, I sat still and listened and thought of Henry Hudson if he were to once more come to Kingston in his Half Moon. He would have no better place to dock at Kingston Point then he had then. I'm afraid we would have to come out to him, like the Indians did back in 1609 in canoes, or some could now come in motor boats. I do hope, this celebration brings us one thing, a dock on the Hudson River, our Kingston Point Park back as a Playland. As long as they are making it a Hudson River celebration, where in the world can we have it? We cannot have the Naval parades in the stadium or the auditorium or Forsyth Park. Will we be the only city without a river front and dock. Will we have to wave to it, like I did to the Dayline Peter Stuyvesant) this spring (June 1) from the mainland of the Point and see it with binoculars, as it steamed by us in the middle of the river.

A professor of ancient history took a long, disapproving look at his new-born son and told the doctor,

Professor — We'll name him Theophilus.

Doctor — Why wish a name like that on the poor little tyke?

Professor—Because, he's the Theolphilus looking baby I ever saw.

The local undertaker's hearse developed a bad squeak, so he hired a man from the garade to fix it. The garageman lay down on the carrier so he could listen in comfort and try to locate the squeak while the mortician took him for a drive.

At the first red light the garageman sat up to look around. The drivers of four cars fainted.

Play Safe While You Drive!

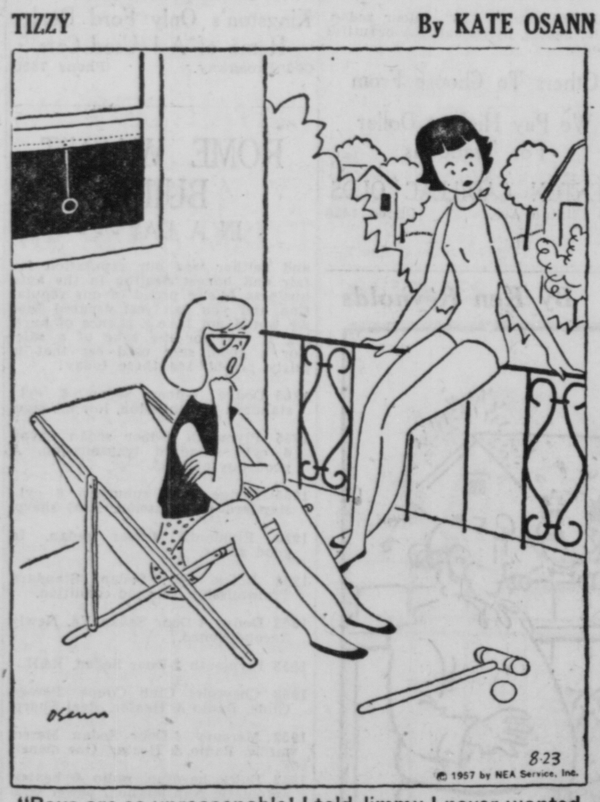

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving.

Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.

"Boys are so unreasonable! I told Jimmy I never wanted to talk to him again and he hasn't called me since!"

The city police were hot on the trail of an escaped convict. When they learned that he was heading for a small town downstate, they called the local constable there.

Constable—You send me a picture of that guy and I'll get him.

The city police mailed the constable a dozen pictures of the wanted man showing him in profile, full face, standing, sitting, and in various costumes.

Within 24 hours, the constable was calling the city police.

Constable—We got 11 of them crooks (boasting excitedly) and I guarantee to jug the last one before morning.

The novel, "Gone With the Wind," has been translated into thirty languages, more than "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

ADJUSTS SELF FOR NEW DATA—IBM engineer Joseph G. Drop, left, shows the insertion mechanism of the new Programmed Component Assembly System to Louis Voerman, assistant superintendent of IMB's Manufacturing Engineering Division at the company's Poughkeepsie plant. The new IBM machine, which will probably be priced in the $100,000 range, automatically inserts components in printed wiring boards according to instructions contained in punched cards. When a change in the layout and componentry of a board is called for, a new set of IBM cards is fed into the system which then automatically adjusts itself for the job at hand. The new device was developed and built by manufacturing engineers at IBM's Poughkeepsie, N. Y., computer manufacturing facilities, where it is currently turning out wiring panels for the company's data processing equipment ten times faster than is possible by manual assembly methods.

Ives Explains Honesty Talk Pinned to Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) says that when he told James R. Hoffa "I think you're honest" he meant only that the Teamsters Union leader "has a reputation for keeping his word."

The senator, a member of the Senate Rackets Committee, made the remark to Hoffa Tuesday during a committee recess. He said, "I may not always agree with you but I want to tell you I think you are honest."

In a statement yesterday, Ives said:

"That quotation is accurate as far as it goes. But I said more than that — and apparently this part of what I said was not overheard by the press.

"I also said to Mr. Hoffa, 'We'll know more about that when we start questioning you about (Johnny) Dio.'

"My remark to Mr. Hoffa was confined solely to the fact that he has a reputation for keeping his word.

"I certainly was not passing judgment on his whole record or the honesty or lack of honesty reflected by that record."

IAEC May Abandon Hope for Agreement

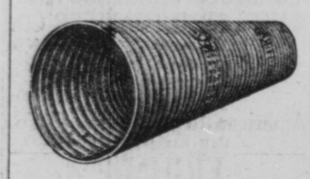

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Inter-American Economic Conference today appeared well on its way toward abandoning any hope of reaching a strong general economic agreement.

The United States yesterday joined officially with Brazil in calling for a watered-down agreement far short of an over-all economic policy for the hemisphere.

It appeared a number of the 20 nations gathered here still would fight to salvage binding and strong articles of the original agreement. But in view of the storm of controversy surrounding it, there seemed little chance they would be successful.

Paltz Jaycees Start Campaign For Yule Project

A fund raising campaign for the Jaycee's Christmas project for children was outlined at the August meeting of New Paltz Junior Chamber of Commerce this week at the home of Edward Valentine on Old Forde Road, New Paltz.

President Ralph Dennis, who presided, appointed Eldon S. Johnson chairman of the campaign.

Reports were heard on the proposal of organizing a teenage bowling league in order to begin the first games in late September.

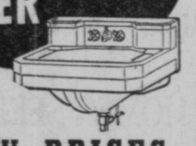

The group voted a donation to the Lake Charles, La., chapter to aid in building an orphanage for the children affected by the recent hurricane disaster.

Activities reported include attendance at the New York State Jaycee planning meeting in Middletown Saturday. Representing the local chapter will be Howard LaBas, B. Amsen, George Stiller and Ralph Dennis.

Lutherans Due To Act Today on Assembly Beliefs

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "What do Lutherans believe?"

The question served as a framework for deliberations today on a summing-up statement of principles that will be one of the final acts of the Lutheran World Federation's Third Assembly.

The statement will not be a policy directive. The federation is not an organized church but an association of 61 Lutheran churches from 32 nations representing 50 million Lutherans.

It will, however, express agreement by the federation on basic principles of doctrine and other matters.

Clear-Cut Stand

A federation spokesman said the statement might provide a clear-cut declaration of Lutheranism's stand on issues of global controversy.

In what outgoing President Hanns Lilje of Germany said was an answer to critics "who say the church has not taken a positive stand on world problems," the assembly yesterday approved a resolution calling for worldwide disarmament.

The resolution asked for an end to atomic weapons testing, provided it was accompanied by a halt to the production of nuclear arms.

Adoption of the resolution came after the Assembly voted in an American, Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, as the federation's president for the next five years.

One of the most influential figures in Protestantism, the 57-year-old cleric is president of the United Lutheran Church in America Council of Churches.

Train Hits Plane After Track Landing

CORONA, Calif. (AP) — Gene Maxwell's light plane is a wreck. It seems that a train hit it.

Maxwell, 31, of Corona, was practicing landings yesterd a y when he lost power, brushed some trees, and made a near-perfect forced landing — except for one detail. He landed on the Santa Fe right-of-way.

While Maxwell was checking his plane and his only injury, a scratched arm, he heard a train whistle. He and several bystanders were still trying to drag the two-seater off the tracks when a freight train, bound for Santa Ana, Calif., reached the scene.

Officers listed it as Corona's first train-vs.-airplane accident.

Bronx Man Killed In Route 17 Crash

LIVINGSTON MANOR (AP) — Abraham Ackerman, of the Bronx, was killed last night in a bus-panel truck collision on Route 17 near here.

Thirteen passengers and the bus driver, James Morgan, of Monroe, escaped injury. The bus is owned by the Hudson Transit lines.

Abraham Katz, of Brooklyn, driver of the panel truck in which Ackerman was a passenger, was taken to Loomis Hospital, at Liberty, where his condition was reported as not serious.

Fire Damages Cohoes Freight House, Cars

COHOES (AP) — Fire yesterday damaged a frame freight house of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad and six cars standing nearby.

There was no estimate of the loss.

The cause was not determined. Police said the flames apparently originated in a ramp adjoining the freight house.

A railroad spokesman said four of the cars were loaded with signal equipment and two with baled cotton waste.

4 Crewmen Are Killed in Crash Of CG Airplane

NEW YORK (AP) — Four of six crewmen were killed yesterday when a twin-engined Coast Guard amphibious plane crashed and burned while taking off from Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn.

Today the Coast Guard identified the dead as:

Lt. Comdr. Claude S. Labaw of Hempstead, N. Y., the pilot; co-pilot Lt. Roland A. Faucher of Canton, N. Y.; Matthew R. Ross, aviation machinist's mate 3-c of Canton, Ohio; and Gerald F. Fox, aviation electronics man 3-c of Harmony, Pa. Labaw and Ross were married. No ages were given.

Walked From Crash

One of the crew, Frederick E. West Jr., aviation electrician's mate 2-c of Columbus, Ohio, walked from the scene of the crash. He was treated for shock.

The second survivor, John R. Lowell, who lives at the field, was taken by helicopter to St. Albans Hospital in Queens. His condition early today was described as serious.

The plane, a Grumman Albatross, was taking off on a routine flight when it fell at the end of the runway. The aircraft normally is used for search and rescue work at sea.

A Coast Guard board will investigate the crash.

84 Airmen Are Suspected Flu Cases in England

LONDON (AP) — Eighty-four suspected cases of Asiatic flu from five U. S. Air Force installations in the London area are in a hospital at nearby Bushey Park.

"At the moment we have determined that it is a type of a strain of flu, under which Asiatic flu is classified—but we have not confirmed that it is in fact Asiatic flu," said an Air Force spokesman.

Another 120 American airmen at Burtonwood in the English midlands also were hospitalized as suspected cases and others have been confined to quarters at additional installations.

"We are giving them no special treatment," said the spokesman. "We are treating them as regular flu cases and isolating them, of course."

Two Given Death Terms for Flame Murder in Club

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men were sentenced to death and a third to life in prison yesterday for murder at the Club Mecca.

Six persons died last April 4 when the neighborhood tavern suddenly erupted in flames. Trial evidence showed two of the men sloshed a can of gasoline into the place and set it afire. They had been thrown out earlier because of unwelcome attentions to a woman customer.

Clyde Bates, 36-year-old former convict, and Manuel Chavez, 25, were sentenced to death. Manuel J. Hernandez, 18, who drove the get-away car, drew the life term.
